Traffic Blamed for 25 Out of 35 Violent Deaths In State

Eight persons were hurt in weekend traffic accidents, five of them in a crash on Route 62 at the Mahoning river bridge two miles east of Alliance at 2 a. m. today, according to Salem state highway patrol reports.

William C. Wong, 17, his father, George Wong, 49, and Yee Monart, all Chinese of Canton, suffered fractured skulls when their car, driven by William Wong, overturned after passing the bridge and struck another machine, driven by Donald E. Sobers, 31, of Youngstown.

Sobers was unhurt, although his wife, Margaret, 30, suffered lacerations of the right knee and body bruises. Their daughter, Suzanne, 7, escaped injury.

Violent death struck at the four corners of the nation over the three-day Christmas holiday, leaving 633 victims. Traffic accounted for 418 of the total, the rest resulting from fire, shootings, stabbings and other tragedies.

In the state, the deaths of three persons in a head-on automobile collision near Circleville brought Ohio's holiday weekend toll to 35, 25 registered in traffic.

William Wong received a fractured skull and lacerations of the left ear. George Wong suffered a skull fracture, broken jaw and face lacerations. Monart, besides a skull fracture, suffered lacerations over the right eye and contusions of the head.

George Wong Critical

George Wong is reported in critical condition at the Alliance City hospital. Condition of the others is fair.

A fourth Chinaman, Yee Hen, of Canton, escaped uninjured. State Patrolman P. D. Barnes said.

William Wong, who was driving, apparently lost control of the car while traveling at a high rate of speed in the opposite direction, saw the car swerve and attempted to get out of the way by taking a side road but was not quick enough.

George Pettigrew, 43, of Lisbon, was jailed on a drunken driving charge by State Patrolman James White after his auto rolled down a 12-foot embankment, two miles south of Lisbon on Route 164, at 2:50 a. m. Sunday.

HOME IS RAZED
IN $5,000 FIRE

Residence of Harry Hall, Near Leetonia, Is Destroyed

LEETONIA, Dec. 26.—Damage estimated at $5,000 resulted from a fire which destroyed the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hall, two miles south of here on the Leetonia-Lisbon road, Monday afternoon.

Loss of furniture, clothing, canned goods, etc., was placed at $1,500. The house was valued at $3,500.

Defective wiring was blamed for the fire which was discovered at 1:45 p. m. in the attic of the structure.

Lack of water prevented the Leetonia fire department from checking the spread of the flames. Firemen pumped dry the well on the adjoining Kinnerman farm.

Furniture in the living room, dining room and kitchen was partially saved.

The fire occurred at a time when Mr. Hall was at work at the Republic Steel Corp. plant in Youngstown.

Loss of the house is reported covered by insurance.

Washingtonville Driver To Explain State St., Ellsworth Ave. Accident To Mayor

Herbert Jacobson of Washingtonville was cited to appear in the mayor's court today to answer to a reckless driving charge after his automobile allegedly knocked over a street light standard at the corner of State st. and N. Ellsworth ave. at 4:10 a. m. Sunday.

The pole shattered a window in the Floding & Reynard drug store when it fell.

Jacobson, who returned to the police station after the accident, was released under $50 bond.

The left rear fender of a car driven by Ray Miller of Columbiana was torn loose when struck by another machine at the corner of E. State st. and Fair ave. at 6:20 p. m. Saturday, police said.

The other car failed to stop after the accident.

Automobiles driven by Lester Bonnell, R. D. 3, Salem, and Carl Sekely of 826 Jennings ave., tangled at the corner of Jennings and W. State st. at 5 p. m. yesterday.

Another mishap at the intersection of E. State st. and Vine ave. at 7 p. m. Saturday involved machines operated by Mrs. Sylvia Stratton of R. D. 3, Salem and Donald White, R. D. 2.

William Bowers of 892 E. Fifth st. reported the side of his car damaged when another car, the driver of which sped away.

Social Security Act Pay-off to Get Under Way Next Month

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—The federal government puts into operation next month its far-reaching plan to provide mass security in the form of monthly retirement pensions for older workers and their dependents.

It will be the beginning of the monthly pay-off of old age insurance benefits under the social security law, and estimates indicate that during 1940 more than $100,000,000 will be distributed to approximately 1,000,000 persons.

The social security pay-off will not approach the goals of various proposals advocated by old-age pension groups. For the most part it may fall short of the $55 a month average security wage paid WPA workers.

Government statisticians have estimated that payments for retired single men will average about $26 a month for life. The estimated average for a married man who receives a supplemental benefit for his wife will be about $39.

The tops in government old age benefits is $85 a month, but to get it, a married man would need to be covered by the social security system for 40 years and be able to show an average of $250 a month in earnings throughout that period.

The start of payments for January—for which checks will reach beneficiaries about Feb. 1—will put into operation the final phase of the Social Security Act approved by congress in 1935 as one of the key features of the New Deal program to provide systematic security.

Other parts of the law already are in operation providing federal financing for the administration of state unemployment compensation plans, and federal grants to the states for the care of the needy aged, the blind and the dependent children.

Many persons both in congress and the administration are hopeful that improved business conditions will do much to narrow the gap between federal income and outgo in the fiscal year beginning next July 1. Budget authorities are forecasting a $3,000,000,000 deficit for that year, compared with a probable deficit of about $3,800,000,000 for the current year. Expenditures for the next year are set tentatively at about $9,250,000,000—only $250,000,000 less than those for this year.

Defense Seen as Item

Mr. Roosevelt may request an additional $500,000,000 for national defense, but is seeking to make this up in reduced appropriations for other governmental purposes.

One big complication in the federal fiscal picture is the present national debt. The debt now stands at about $4,000,000,000, and congress must decide whether to raise the limit, increase taxes, or sharply reduce expenditures.

There have been some suggestions that the debt limit be increased to a level only sufficient to compensate for the projected deficit in the coming fiscal year. Supporters of this idea argue that it would tend to restrain congress from voting appropriations in excess of estimated revenues.

LONDON, Dec. 26.—The first contingent of Australian forces to reach England since the war started landed at a south coast port today. All were members of the air force.

Arrival of the tanned Australian squadron marked the second such demonstration of empire solidarity in little more than a week. The other was arrival of a division of the Canadian active service force Sunday and Monday last week.

The Australian contingent is a fully trained squadron of airmen—pilots, gunners and observers—and ground staff—mechanics ready to take over their duties with the Royal Air Force immediately.

ECONOMY PLANS
BOBBING UP FOR NEXT CONGRESS

Content Start Should Be Made Toward Balancing Budget

BUT LITTLE REAL
ACTION IS SEEN

Votes Against Fund Bills Will Be Scarce In Election Year

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—Congressmen are talking now about cutting down federal expenditures, but if past performance is any guide, the economy axe may be gathering rust before the first 1940-1941 appropriation bill goes to the White House.

Various senators and representatives, awaiting the opening of the new session Jan. 3, are contending that a start should be made toward a balanced budget, that relief expenditures should be curtailed substantially, that congress should employ a budget officer to help it whittle down administration spending estimates, and that President Roosevelt's projected record defense program should be reduced.

Election Year Coming Up

But, when voting time comes, it may be a different story. Repeatedly in the last session, a bi-partisan economy bloc fought for reductions in spending measures. Usually it was beaten, and congress finally topped administration budget requests by $190,800,000.

Because 1940 is an election year, there may be many congressmen who will hesitate to vote against bills carrying funds to be spent in their states. And almost every major appropriation measure has something for every state.

The election-year psychology also is expected to operate against enactment of any new tax bill. Besides the general unpopularity of taxes among the voters, members of congress will be wanting to get away from Washington for the national political conventions and will be reluctant to give attention to time-consuming revenue legislation.

The President has declared that congress owes the treasury $500,000,000 for extra farm benefits already appropriated but not financed by taxes.

May Ask Farm Levies

Mr. Roosevelt probably will suggest enactment of farm benefit levies in his annual message to congress, but the farm bloc is expected to oppose them—as it has in the past—on the ground that no tax provision has been made for other deficit expenditures.

There has been talk of enacting war taxes to take part of the profits which American business reaps from the European conflict, but these, too, may be forgotten in the general effort to wind up business early.

Many persons both in congress and the administration are hopeful that improved business conditions will do much to narrow the gap between federal income and outgo in the fiscal year beginning next July 1. Budget authorities are forecasting a $3,000,000,000 deficit for that year, compared with a probable deficit of about $3,800,000,000 for the current year. Expenditures for the next year are set tentatively at about $9,250,000,000—only $250,000,000 less than those for this year.

Held In Shooting

YOUNGSTOWN, Dec. 26.—A 25-year-old man, described by Mahoning county deputy sheriffs as a former husband of Mrs. Helen Dieter, 26, is held in county jail today for investigation in the shooting of Mrs. Dieter yesterday afternoon. The woman is in the South Side hospital with bullet wounds in her wrist and shoulder.

The youth, August Ardent, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Ardent, was suffocated when he ran back into the burning structure to get some clothing to protect other members of the family from the freezing weather. Firemen found him huddled behind a door, overcome by smoke, and were unable to revive him.

The fire started in a rear dwelling occupied by Mr. and Mrs. John Goodman and two children and spread to the dwelling of Mr. and Mrs. Ardent, who escaped.

WHITE IS NAMED
ON COMMISSION

Columbus Attorney Is Selected To Succeed John W. Beall

COLUMBUS, Dec. 26.—James A. White, Columbus attorney and a Republican, was appointed to the state industrial commission today by Gov. John W. Bricker to succeed John W. Beall, Lima Democrat, as industry's representative on the commission.

Beall's six-year term expired last June 30, but he had continued working pending appointment of a successor. He had acted as commission chairman and was criticized severely by the Citizens' Tax League of Ohio, which reported to Governor Bricker that the division was not operated efficiently.

White will serve in the $5,000 a year position until June 30, 1945, if confirmed by the senate.

White is a former mayor of Barnesville and U. S. commissioner. He once was attorney and superintendent of the Ohio Anti-Saloon league and was an unsuccessful candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination in 1924.

Present commissioners are Will T. Blake, Columbiana county Republican, and Clarence H. Knisley, Bainbridge Democrat, representing labor and the public, respectively.

PASTOR'S WIFE
SUCCUMBS HERE

Mrs. H. L. Miller of Sandusky, Here For Christmas, Dies Suddenly At Parents' Home

Mrs. Frances Ann Miller, 37, wife of Rev. H. L. Miller of Sandusky, former pastor of the local Christian church, died suddenly at 7 a. m. Monday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Probert, 418 E. Seventh st. Death was due to a heart ailment.

Rev. and Mrs. Miller and two daughters had come to spend Christmas here. Mrs. Miller assisted in decorating the Christmas tree on Christmas eve.

She was born in Salem, Jan. 17, 1902, was graduated from Salem High school and later taught school at Junior High here. She had attended the Western Reserve Teachers Training school.

Rev. and Mrs. Miller were married in Salem June 14, 1924.

She was a member of the First Christian church of Sandusky and was president of the Sandusky Study club.

The family resided here when Rev. Miller had charge of the local Christian church. Rev. Miller left in 1926 to take charge of a pastorate at Fort Wayne, Ind. They had been in Sandusky for the last six years.

Besides her parents, Mrs. Miller leaves her husband, two daughters, Martha Ann and Margaret Jane, and one sister, Mrs. J. W. Hall, of Lansdowne, Pa.

The body was removed to the Arbaugh-Pearce funeral home, where rites will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow, in charge of Rev. C. F. Evans. Burial will be in Hope cemetery.

Friends may call this evening at the funeral home.

Penitent Forger
Gives Himself Up;
May Win Freedom

A penitent Hanoverton youth came into the police station yesterday and said he wanted to give himself up.

"For what," police queried?

"The young man then related that quite some time ago he found a blank check on a street here, forged another party's name to it, and cashed it for $23.81 at the Jumbo Coal Co. at Bergholz, in Jefferson county."

He said he was also guilty of a similar offense at Bar Harbor, Me. The defendant gave no reason for giving himself up but police believe the wrong he had done had preyed upon his mind.

Today, Chief of Police Ralph Stoffer pondered what to do with his prisoner. "I've a good mind to release him," the chief commented. "Hardened criminals, deserving stiff penalties, frequently get off lightly. If I turn this lad over to Jefferson county authorities, he'll probably land up in the state penitentiary. I don't believe he deserves it."

Christmas Was Really Merry For
Crippled Boy, 11

LISBON, Dec. 26.—A happy boy on Christmas day was Hugh Stewart, 11 years old and crippled, who resides with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. James Patterson, at nearby West Point.

Attaches of County Recorder Dick Wilson's office packed a box of toys and other presents, including a battery radio set, for Hugh. A Christmas tree was another gift.

The radio set, however, had to be exchanged for an electric one because some of Hugh's other friends—and he has many of them—went together and sponsored a collection of electric current in his home.

This was the gift of drivers of the Penn-Ohio busses which daily pass Hugh's house.

Hugh, it seems, sits almost constantly by the front window, waving to the bus drivers and other friends who have learned to look for him.

It is not unusual for the bus driver to stop, place Hugh in a front seat and give him a ride to Pittsburgh and back.

AKRON BOY ADMITS
SHOOTING FATHER
BECAUSE OF HATE

AKRON, Dec. 26.—James D. Hill, Jr., 18-year-old NYA worker, was held on murder charges today after confessing he slew his father because he "hated" him.

Alva Russell, Summit county prosecutor, said the youth signed a confession telling of shooting his 44-year-old father in their home and dumping the body on the bank of the old Ohio canal, at a point two blocks from the city's business district.

"I hated my father so I shot him," Detective Inspector Dennis Murray quoted young Hill as saying. "He had threatened me several times. He also threatened my mother. When he would get crazy drunk it was hard to tell just what he was going to do."

Murray said the youth told of shooting his father in the head with a borrowed gun as he slept on a bed. Young Hill declared he returned later, loaded his father's body into their car and drove it to the canal bank.

The youth, who is an assistant scoutmaster, told Murray he burned the bed clothes and turned over the blood-stained mattress. The mother was at work and two younger sons were away at the time of the shooting.

The body remained unidentified 24 hours after discovery by a passerby. Then the son appeared at a mortuary and made the identification, saying he had read of the "murder mystery." Discrepancies in his story led to questioning by Murray.

FINNISH TROOPS
HIT AT MURMANSK

Near Strategic Railway As War Is Taken Into Soviet Land

(By Associated Press)

VIIPURI, Finland, Dec. 26.—Long range artillery shells burst through the night on this seacoast city previously abandoned by most of its citizens.

Numerous fires were started and homes in the southeast section were destroyed but the damage was comparatively slight.

The Soviet Russian forces appeared to be concentrating in this area by long range hammering and air raids as the Finns took the war into Soviet territory in another sector, driving toward the Murmansk railroad, the Russian's main supply line to the far north.

Firemen Keep Vigil

Viipuri firemen kept a constant vigil, fighting flames started by the shells, apparently fired from batteries 25 miles away.

This would place the Russian artillery about 18 miles within Finnish territory on the Karelian Isthmus.

As firemen battled flames in the southwest section of Viipuri a shell ripped a big hole in a nearby backyard. The size of the crater, about seven feet deep, led military experts to believe the Russians had brought up heavier batteries than previously used.

Russians warplanes in a four-hour raid over the ancient city yesterday bombed a workers' section but the only casualties known were two women and a girl injured. The few remaining residents huddled into bombproof shelters at intervals throughout the day. Public gatherings for Christmas celebrations were quickly dispersed.

Bombs Are Dropped

At least 30 warplanes flew over the city and one was shot down by anti-aircraft fire. Approximately 200 bombs shook the city, including four or five 200-pound missiles and incendiary bombs.

Shrapnel tore holes in many homes in the workers' district. Electrical and telephone service was interrupted periodically, gas was cut off completely and water pressure reduced.

Although the Russians apparently were aiming at a railway line through the area, the tracks thus far had not been damaged.

Finnish troops pressed within 75 miles of the strategic Murmansk railway, as the war was carried into Russian territory in the Leka area, approximately 190 miles northeast of Viipuri.

The Russian communists said that in the area of Suomussalmi, in the "waistline" sector, Soviet reconnoitering units inflicted a serious defeat on the enemy and occupied the enemy's fortified positions.

FDR To Run Again In Emergency Case

DETROIT, Dec. 26.—Attorney General Frank Murphy, who said that he expected to be back in Washington today, predicted here that President Roosevelt would seek a third term only in event of a "dire national emergency" and expressed a belief that a third "liberal" party would be "disastrous to the progressive cause."

ECONOMY PLANS BOBBING UP FOR NEXT CONGRESS

Contend Start Should Be Made Toward Balancing Budget

BUT LITTLE REAL ACTION IS SEEN

Votes Against Fund Bills Will Be Scarce In Election Year

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—Congressmen are talking now about cutting down federal expenditures, but if past performance is any guide, the economy axe may be gathering rust before the first 1940-1941 appropriation bill goes to the White House.

Various senators and representatives, awaiting the opening of the new session Jan. 3, are contending that a start should be made toward a balanced budget, that relief expenditures should be curtailed substantially, that congress should employ a budget officer to help it whittle down administration spending estimates, and that President Roosevelt's projected record defense program should be reduced.

Election Year Coming Up
But, when voting time comes, it may be a different story. Repeatedly in the last session, a bi-partisan economy bloc fought for reductions in spending measures. Usually it was beaten, and congress finally topped administration budget requests by $190,800,000.

Because 1940 is an election year, there may be many congressmen who will hesitate to vote against bills carrying funds to be spent in their states. And almost every major appropriation measure has something for every state.

The election-year psychology also is expected to operate against enactment of any new tax bill. Besides the general unpopularity of taxes among the voters, members of congress will be wanting to get away from Washington for the national political conventions and will be reluctant to give attention to time-consuming revenue legislation.

The President has declared that congress owes the treasury $500,000,000 for extra farm benefits already appropriated but not financed by taxes.

May Ask Farm Levies
Mr. Roosevelt probably will suggest enactment of farm benefit levies in his annual message to congress, but the farm bloc is expected to oppose them—as it has in the past—on the ground that no tax provision has been made for other deficit expenditures.

There has been talk of enacting farm taxes to take part of the profits which American business reaps from the European conflict, but these, too, may be forgotten in the general effort to wind up business early.

Many persons both in congress and the administration are hopeful that improved business conditions will do much to narrow the gap between federal income and outgo in the fiscal year beginning next July 1. Budget authorities are forecasting a $3,000,000,000 deficit for that year, compared with a probable deficit of about $3,800,000,000 for the current year. Expenditures for the next year are set tentatively at about $9,250,000,000—only $250,000,000 less than those for this year.

Defense Seen as Item
Mr. Roosevelt may request an additional $500,000,000 for national defense, but is seeking to make this up in reduced appropriations for other governmental purposes.

One big complication in the federal fiscal picture is the present $45,000,000 limitation on the national debt. The debt now stands at about $41,000,000,000, and congress must decide whether to raise the limit, increase taxes, or sharply reduce expenditures.

There have been some suggestions that the debt limit be increased to a level only sufficient to compensate for the projected deficit in the coming fiscal year. Supporters of this idea argue that it would tend to restrain congress from voting appropriations in excess of estimated revenues.

Arrival of the tanned Australian squadron marked the second such demonstration of empire solidarity in little more than a week. The other was arrival of a division of the Canadian active service force Sunday and Monday of last week.

The Australian contingent is a fully trained squadron of airman—pilots, gunners and observers—and ground staff-mechanics ready to take over their duties with the Royal Air Force immediately.

Santa Brings Sons, Born In Clinic Here

Four boys, two of them Christmas presents, were born at the Central Clinic over the holiday weekend.
A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph McGurran of 438 Franklin ave. at 12:30 a. m., shortly after the official arrival of Christmas day.

Last night a son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Donald Cobourn of R. D. 2, Columbiana. The mother is the former Miss Helen Garrod of Salem.

Saturday births at the clinic included a son, in the afternoon, to Mr. and Mrs. P. R. Past of R. D. 1, Leetonia, and a son, in the evening, to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph K. Kornbau of 764 East Pershing st.

WHITE IS NAMED ON COMMISSION

Columbus Attorney Is Selected To Succeed John W. Beall

COLUMBUS, Dec. 26.—James A. White, Columbus attorney and a Republican, was appointed to the state industrial commission today by Gov. John W. Bricker to succeed John W. Beall, Lima Democrat, as industry's representative on the commission.

Beall's six-year term expired last June 30, but he had continued working pending appointment of a successor. He had acted as commission chairman and was criticized severely by the Citizens' Tax League of Ohio, which reported to Governor Bricker that the division was not operated efficiently.

White will serve in the $5,000 a year position until June 30, 1945, if confirmed by the senate.

White is a former mayor of Barnesville and U. S. commissioner. He once was attorney and superintendent of the Ohio Anti-Saloon league and was an unsuccessful candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination in 1924.

Present commissioners are Will T. Blake, Columbiana county Republican, and Clarence H. Knisley, Bainbridge Democrat, representing labor and the public, respectively.

Penitent Forger Gives Himself Up; May Win Freedom

A penitent Hanoverton youth came into the police station yesterday and said he wanted to give himself up.

"For what," police queried?
The young man then related that quite some time ago he found a blank check on a street here, forged another party's name to it, and cashed it for $23.81 at the Jumbo Coal Co. at Bergholz, in Jefferson county.

He said he was also guilty of a similar offense at Bar Harbor, Me. The defendant gave no reason for giving himself up but police believe the wrong he had done had preyed upon his mind.

Today, Chief of Police Ralph Stoffer pondered what to do with his prisoner. "I've a good mind to release him," the chief commented. "Hardened criminals, deserving stiff penalties, frequently get off lightly. If I turn this lad over to Jefferson county authorities, he'll probably land up in the state penitentiary. I don't believe he deserves it."

Youth Suffocated In Fire At Canton

CANTON, Dec. 26.—A 17-year-old boy met his death and 11 other persons, members of two families, were driven from their adjoining homes in night clothing Sunday when an overheated stove set fire to the two buildings.

The youth, August Ardent, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Ardent, was suffocated when he ran back into the burning structure to get some clothing to protect other members of the family from the freezing weather. Firemen found him huddled behind a door, overcome by smoke, and were unable to revive him.

The fire started in a rear dwelling occupied by Mr. and Mrs. John Goodman and two children and spread to the dwelling of Mr. and Mrs. Ardent, who escaped.

Christmas Was Really Merry For Crippled Boy, 11

LISBON, Dec. 26.—A happy boy on Christmas day was Hugh Stewart, 11 years old, and crippled, who resides with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. James Patterson, at nearby West Point.

Attaches of County Recorder Dick Wilson's office packed a box of toys and other presents, including a battery radio set, for Hugh. A Christmas tree was another gift.

The radio set, however, had to be exchanged for an electric one because some of Hugh's other friends—and he has many of them—went together and sponsored installation of electric current in his home.

This was the gift of drivers of the Penn-Ohio busses which daily pass Hugh's house.

Hugh, it seems, sits almost constantly by the front window, waving to the bus drivers and other friends who have learned to look for him.

It is not unusual for the bus driver to stop, place Hugh in a front seat and give him a ride to Pittsburgh and back.

PASTOR'S WIFE SUCCUMBS HERE

Mrs. H. L. Miller of Sandusky, Here For Christmas, Dies Suddenly At Parents' Home

Mrs. Frances Ann Miller, 37, wife of Rev. H. L. Miller of Sandusky, former pastor of the local Christian church, died suddenly at 7 a. m. Monday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Probert, 418 E. Seventh st. Death was due to a heart ailment.

Rev. and Mrs. Miller and two daughters had come to spend Christmas here. Mrs. Miller assisted in decorating the Christmas tree on Christmas eve.

She was born in Salem, Jan. 17, 1902, was graduated from Salem High school and later taught school at Junior High here. She had attended the Western Reserve Teachers' Training school.

Rev. and Mrs. Miller were married in Salem June 14, 1924. She was a member of the First Christian church of Sandusky and was president of the Sandusky Study club.

The family resided here when Rev. Miller had charge of the local Christian church. Rev. Miller left in 1926 to take charge of a pastorate at Fort Wayne, Ind. They had been in Sandusky for the last six years.

Besides her parents, Mrs. Miller leaves her husband; two daughters, Martha Ann and Margaret Jane, and one sister, Mrs. I. W. Hall, of Lansdowne, Pa.

The body was removed to the Arbaugh-Pearce funeral home, where rites will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow, in charge of Rev. C. F. Evans. Burial will be in Hope cemetery.

Friends may call this evening at the funeral home.

Contest Planned

An attendance contest will be inaugurated at the Jan. 3 meeting of Perry grange. Wilda Bricker is the chairman in charge of arrangements.

MINERS TO GET JOB INSURANCE

Cleveland Court Says Workers Entitled to Pay In Shutdown

(By Associated Press)
CLEVELAND, Dec. 26.—Ohio miners made idle by last spring's bituminous coal field shutdown are entitled to unemployment insurance, a common pleas court held today.

This issue originally involved possibly $500,000 for some 14,000 miners. However, a seasonal slack in operations following termination of the shutdown, and many laid off miners collected 16 weeks' unemployment benefits—the maximum allowable in any year. These miners will be ineligible to further pay under today's ruling, and the state compensation bureau said benefits under it would be "very nominal."

The decision was by Judge Joy Seth Hurd in a suit brought by the United States Coal Co., on behalf of itself and other operators. The CIO United Mine Workers opposed the suit.

Judge Hurd held the shutdown was not a strike because "a strike can not exist merely as a state of mind." Ohio law provides persons involved in a strike cannot receive the unemployment benefits.

"Positive action by the employees" is necessary for a strike, the judge said, and this was lacking. He pointed out miners through their representatives also offered to continue working until an agreement or disagreement was reached, but operators rejected this proposal.

Akron Boy Admits Shooting Father Because of Hate

AKRON, Dec. 26.—James D. Hill, Jr., 18-year-old NVA worker, was held on murder charges today after confessing he slew his father because he "hated" him.

Alva Russell, Summit county prosecutor, said the youth signed a confession telling of shooting his 44-year-old father in their home and dumping the body on the bank of the old Ohio canal, at a point two blocks from the city's business district.

"I hated my father so I shot him," Detective Inspector Dennis Murray quoted young Hill as saying. "He had threatened me several times. He also threatened my mother. When he would get crazy drunk it was hard to tell just what he was going to do."

Murray said the youth told of shooting his father in the head with a borrowed gun as he slept on a bed. Young Hill declared he returned later, loaded his father's body into their car and drove it to the canal bank.

The youth, who is an assistant scoutmaster, told Murray he burned the bed clothes and turned over the blood-stained mattress. The mother was at work and two younger sons were away at the time of the shooting.

The body remained unidentified 24 hours after discovery by a passerby. Then the son appeared at a mortuary and made the identification, saying he had read of the "murder mystery." Discrepancies in his story led to questioning by Murray.

VIIPURI TAKES SHELLING FROM LONG DISTANCE

City Previously Abandoned, However, by Most Of Its Citizens

FINNISH TROOPS HIT AT MURMANSK

Near Strategic Railway As War Is Taken Into Soviet Land

(By Associated Press)
VIIPURI, Finland, Dec. 26.—Long range artillery shells burst through out the night on this seacoast city previously abandoned by most of its citizens.

Numerous fires were started and homes in the southeast section were destroyed but the damage was comparatively slight.

The Soviet Russian forces appeared to be concentrating in this area by long range hammering and air raids as the Finns took the war into Soviet territory in another sector, driving toward the Murmansk railroad, the Russian's main supply line to the far north.

Firemen Keep Vigil
Viipuri firemen kept a constant vigil, fighting flames started by the shells, apparently fired from batteries 25 miles away.

A Russian plane shot the Russian artillery about 18 miles within Finnish territory on the Karelian isthmus.

As firemen battled flames in the southwest section of Viipuri a shell ripped a big hole in a nearby backyard. The size of the crater, about seven feet deep, led military experts to believe the Russians had brought up heavier batteries than previously used.

Russians warplanes in a four-hour raid over the ancient city yesterday bombed a workers' section but the only casualties known were two women and a girl injured. The few remaining residents huddled into bombproof shelters at intervals throughout the day. Public gatherings for Christmas celebrations were quickly dispersed.

Bombs Are Dropped
At least 30 warplanes flew over the city and one was shot down by anti-aircraft fire. Approximately 200 bombs showed the city, including four or five 200-pound missiles and incendiary bombs.

Shrapnel tore holes in many homes in the workers' district. Electrical and telephone service was interrupted periodically, gas was cut off completely and water pressure reduced.

Although the Russians apparently were aiming at a railway line through the area, the tracks thus far had not been damaged.

Finch troops pressed within 75 miles of the strategic Murmansk railway, as the war was carried into Russian territory in the Lientsa area, approximately 190 miles northeast of Viipuri.

(The Russian communiqué said that in the area of Suomussalmi, in the "waistline" sector, "Soviet reconnoitering units inflicted a serious defeat on the enemy and occupied the enemy's fortified positions."

Finch Jolamantsi, Soviet reconnoitering units surrounded and routed two battalions of Finns who left many killed on the battlefield. Thirty-five prisoners were taken."

Christmas day Finnish successes included an advance in the Kuhmo district on the Vaara river where the Finns said "our troops have defeated two enemy companies and the remainder of the enemy forces are retreating."

Russian air raids were reported at Turku (Åbo), Riihimäki, Provo, Kuopio, Helsinki and Tampere, a Finnish munition base. Three enemy planes were reported brought down at Tampere and at least 10 buildings were bombed in raids on Riihimäki.

Mrs. Linnie Ward, 76, Hurt In Fall, Dies

Mrs. Linnie Ward, 76, died in City hospital at 11 a. m. Saturday of injuries received in a fall a week ago yesterday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Mary Bowker, 165 Rose ave.

Mrs. Ward, who had spent most of her life in Lisbon, had resided with her daughter for the last 11 years.

She was born April 29, 1863, in Lisbon and had been employed 21 years by the old Ohio Telephone Co. She was a member of the Methodist church in Lisbon. Her husband died in 1912.

Survivors include her daughter, Mrs. Bowker, 10 grandchildren and 16 great grandchildren.

The funeral service will be held at the Stark Memorial at 2 p. m. Wednesday in charge of Rev. H. J. Thompson of Youngstown, former Methodist minister here. Burial will follow in the Lisbon cemetery.

Friends may call at the Bowker home tonight.

—OR WE WON'T PLAY

Liberal separatists are bumbling again. Head Bumber Ickes is proposing a separate nominating convention next year to save the country from conservatives—and to save the New Deal liberals.

This is a complex political situation, reflecting the complexity of what goes on in the minds of professional New Deal liberals. Obviously, the Ickes faction has something in mind besides a house party with roasted conservatives as the piece de resistance.

It's the snap surmise of experts that they know President Roosevelt isn't going to run again and are rounding up a pressure group to bring the Democratic convention to terms.

Be that as it may, the notion that liberals must organize their own crowd or perish is one of the sucker suppositions of the age. It reveals what probably is the Achilles heel of what passes for liberalism in the United States.

Like vinegar in oil, they won't stay mixed, but keep separating themselves. They don't take to double harness. If things aren't done their way they won't play. Yet, common sense should tell them what is obvious to everybody else, that when they try to go it alone they usually make a mess of it. Likewise for conservatives. Politics isn't a process of liberalism vs. conservatism, but a combination of the two to give the people the advantages of both. When it becomes otherwise it suffers from its own inflexibility, and the country suffers too.

If some of the loudest liberals would get off in a corner, organize their own party and proceed with it in a straight line to the north pole the United States would be a lot better off politically.

CHICAGO CALLS IT A DAY

University of Chicago has had its day of emphasized football, and the day is over, temporarily. It remains to be seen how the university's alumni will take the trustees' decision to drop out of the Big Ten.

Though the decision seems to take the university out of organized football competition altogether, perhaps a compromise can be arranged. This would be more sensible than abandoning the sport.

Numerous schools have made similar adjustments as traditional opponents grew stronger and weaker on the gridiron, finding new teams for their schedules. The Ohio conference, for instance, has been in a state of flux for years as first one school, then another, found opponents of the same caliber. Some small schools dropped out of the conference and made new schedules with schools of similar size not in the conference; at the same time schools emphasizing football dropped out of the conference to get the same advantage.

It takes all kinds of football to make a season. Big Ten football is a major league loop. University of Chicago is both unwilling and unable to hold the pace. But football still has something to give to the university's students—sport, campus morale, recreation. Its trustees should take a trip from the experience of other schools that have gone through the de-emphasis wringer and authorize a schedule of games with teams of equal strength.

STEADIER NERVES

As an economy measure the administration has cut down its demand for more soldiers in the regular army and national guard. Originally it wanted an increase from 462,000 to 600,000, but will be content now to furnish better equipment for the 462,000, with a possible addition of enough men to make a total of 500,000.

Money to be saved by not standing on the larger figure would total not less than $500,000,000 more than $700,000,000. This is an important total, but perhaps the really important gain in the modification being planned is in popular morale. This is the first sign given for a long time that Washington nerves are steadier.

It seemed for a time that official minds were of an opinion that the United States was going to be railroaded into war and needed to undertake emergency preparations. A larger army was but one sign of the administration's military nervousness—nervousness that seemed to go beyond justifiable attention to preparedness.

Since last fall, however, it has been made plain not only that the United States honestly intended to keep out of the war but that nations abroad weren't interested in its direct participation. War fever is subsiding.

COMMON FAITH

President Roosevelt's Christmas letter to Pope Pius, announcing appointment of Myron C. Taylor as the President's representative to the Vatican, is a distinguished addition to the collection of state papers that will be housed some day at Hyde Park.

The President's motive and his description of what he hopes to encourage by working in cooperation with Pope Pius as well as with the Protestant churches and Jews qualify him as one of the ablest spokesmen for the common faith of the world's devout people.

There is a better world to be built when the forces of destruction have run their course again. "I believe that it is even now being built, silently but inevitably, in the hearts of masses whose voices are not heard, but whose common faith will write the final history of our time," President Roosevelt declares.

Americans take just pride in their chief executive's appropriate action and his skillful phrasing of a hope that sustains them.

The dogs to which the world is said to be going may not want it as a gift.

THE STARS SAY:

For Tuesday, December 26

A DAY of unusual activity and possibly excitement, holding over from holiday jollification, is presaged from the ruling planetary aspects. These pleasant engagements may have more than superficial interest, since surprising twists seem to be involved. Perhaps some sudden, although minor, change may be necessary by way of readjustment. Contacts with employers, superiors or others of influence may not be entirely happy or satisfactory. Extravagance or over-indulgence figures.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a particularly lively and eventful year. It is probable that some sort of minor change is in store, and the relations of superiors, employers or other influential persons may be strained. A tendency to extravagance, over-enthusiasm and indulgence should be curbed.

A child born on this day may be genial, kindly, indulgent and extravagantly inclined, not always having the approval of its superiors.

For Wednesday, December 27

EXCELLENT opportunity for putting over new projects is read from the prevailing lunar and mutual aspects. However, before definite progress is made it may be necessary to break up static conditions or remove obstinate and long-standing obstacles through the means of an indomitable will, energy and practical constructive effort. This aggressive initiative, if applied to new ways and means or entirely fresh technique, will prove lucrative, attracting solid support from large corporations, or political or diplomatic endorsement where this is essential. Flexibility of plans, rather than cut and dried tactics, may prove fruitful.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of great progress and productivity, especially in putting over decidedly new and modern propositions. But stagnant and crystallized conditions first must be tackled with force, determination and aggressiveness, thus attracting substantial support from large interests—business, financial, political or diplomatic. It may be profitable to yield rather than insist on old routines or passe methods and processes.

A child born on this day may be endowed with splendid energy and initiative, as well as much originality, inventive and constructive ability. It should make a decided success of its life by its strong character and applied faculties and forces.

Medicine Makes Progress
In Year Drawing To Close

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

THIS IS a week of stock-taking and so we are allowed to review the progress that has been made in medicine during the past year and to look forward to what the future holds. I have spent some time in going through all the announcements of new methods that have been made during the year, and I should say that the outstanding piece of progress, from a practical standpoint, is the work on the surgical treatment of chronic deafness.

Dr. Clendenning will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

By an operation devised by Dr. Julius Lempert, it is possible to break up the bony fixation of the small bones of the middle ear, allowing resumption of normal transmission of sound waves.

Chronic deafness of the sclerosing type is due to a change in the bony structure of the internal ear. Spongy bone is replaced by hard bone. This fixes the ossicles of the ear so that they can no longer move and transmit the vibrations of the ear drum.

Hearing Mechanism
The mechanism of hearing depends upon the impingement of sound waves on the thin membrane, the ear drum. From the ear drum to the middle ear, the wave is transmitted by the movement of three tiny bones known as the ossicles. When the sound waves reach the inner ear, they are picked up by the fine fibers of the organ of hearing and transmitted to the higher centers in terms of sound.

In chronic sclerosing deafness, the bone at the entrance to the organ of hearing turns from spongy bone to a marble-like hardness, fixing the ossicle so that it cannot move. The organ of hearing is intact and all the nerve connections are intact.

Dr. Lempert's operation contemplates going in and making a new connection so that sound waves can once more be transmitted directly to the organ of hearing.

I have been talking to an ear specialist who has spent some months with Dr. Lempert and has seen his results and learned his technique. The operation is long—it takes about four hours—and is necessarily an extremely difficult and delicate piece of surgery. The results, however, justify any

DEFENSE ISSUE
FIGHT LOOMINGRoosevelt Expected To
Have Battle With
Congress

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26. — Informed congressional sources predicted today that President Roosevelt would have his first 1940 tussle with congress over projected expansion of the national defense program.

Legislators in touch with the White House said Mr. Roosevelt would emphasize defense strongly in his "state of the nation" message, expected January 4, and would ask early action on proposals to bolster the army and navy.

The president has indicated that defense estimates would exceed this year's appropriations, totaling $1,800,000,000, by approximately $500,000,000. His annual message, however, may suggest curtailment of some other governmental expenditures to compensate in part for the defense increase.

In No Danger

Even so, some opposition senators argued that a considerable bloc of legislators believed the United States was in no immediate danger of a attack, and that any new equipment purchased now might become outmoded before this country would be called upon to defend itself.

A house appropriations subcommittee tentatively has set January 5 for the start of hearings on the naval appropriation bill.

Only a handful of senators and 50-odd representatives remained in Washington for the Christmas holiday, but leaders still here outlined the probable legislative situation as follows:

With the quadrennial political conventions in the offing, Mr. Roosevelt and most members of congress are anxious to prevent the injection of new and controversial issues at the next session.

Congress should wind up its business and adjourn by early June. The administration will make a vigorous fight for continuation of its reciprocal trade program, scheduled to expire next June. Extension of the program will be contested by many Republicans and a group of western Democrats who contend it is hurting farm and other interests in their states. The congressional battle over continuance (tentatively is scheduled to begin in early April).

May Revamp Labor Act

Proposals to revamp the Wagner labor act probably will come to a showdown.

The President will ask additional taxes of the processing levy variety for financing past and future farm payments. The chief executive has taken the view that congress already owes the treasury about $500,000,000 for past benefits which were not included in the annual budget. Exclusive of farm taxes, the administration will offer no major revenue measure.

TOLEDO—Ice hockey will come to Toledo next winter. A new arena, called the "Ice House," costing $50,000 will be built. The new arena will seat 4,500 spectators.

—OR WE WON'T PLAY

Liberal separatists are bumbling again. Head Bumber Ickes is proposing a separate nominating convention next year to save the country from conservatives—and to save the New Deal liberals.

This is a complex political situation, reflecting the complexity of what goes on in the minds of professional New Deal libs. Obviously, the Ickes faction has something in mind besides a house party with roared conservatives as the piece de resistance.

It's the snap surmise of experts that they know President Roosevelt isn't going to run again and are rounding up a pressure group to bring the Democratic convention to terms.

Be that as it may, the notion that liberals must organize their own crowd or perish is one of the sucker suppositions of the age. It reveals what probably is the Achilles heel of what passes for liberalism in the United States.

Like vinegar in oil, they won't stay mixed, but keep separating themselves. They don't take to double harness. If things aren't done their way they won't play. Yet, common sense should tell them what is obvious to everybody else, that when they try to go it alone they usually make a mess of it. Likewise for conservatives. Politics isn't a process of liberalism vs. conservatism, but a combination of the two to give the people the advantages of both.

When it becomes otherwise it suffers from its own inflexibility, and the country suffers too.

If some of the loudest libs would get off in a corner, organize their own party and proceed with it in a straight line to the north pole the United States would be a lot better off politically.

CHICAGO CALLS IT A DAY

University of Chicago had its day of emphasized football, and the day is over, temporarily. It remains to be seen how the university's alumni will take the trustees' decision to drop out of the Big Ten.

Though the decision seems to take the university out of organized football competition altogether, perhaps, a compromise can be arranged. This would be more sensible than abandoning the sport.

Numerous schools have made similar adjustments as traditional opponents grew stronger and weaker on the gridiron, finding new teams for their schedules. The Ohio conference, for instance, has been in a state of flux for years as first one school, then another, found opponents of the same caliber. Some small schools dropped out of the conference and made new schedules with schools of similar size not in the conference; at the same time schools emphasizing football dropped out of the conference to get the same advantage.

It takes all kinds of football to make a season. Big Ten football is a major league loop. University of Chicago is both unwilling and unable to hold the pace. But football still has something to give to the university's students—sport, campus morale, recreation. Its trustees should take a trip from the experience of other schools that have gone through the de-emphasis wringer and authorize a schedule of games with teams of equal strength.

STEADIER NERVES

As an economy measure the administration has cut down its demand for more soldiers in the regular army and national guard. Originally it wanted an increase from 462,000 to 600,000, but will be content now to furnish better equipment for the 462,000, with a possible addition of enough men to make a total of 500,000.

Money to be saved by not standing on the larger figure would total not less than $500,000,000 more than $700,000,000. This is an important total, but perhaps the really important gain in the modification being planned is in popular morale. This is the first sign given for a long time that Washington nerves are steadier.

It seemed for a time that official minds were of an opinion that the United States was going to be railroaded into war and needed to undertake emergency preparations. A larger army was but one sign of the administration's military nervousness—nervousness that seemed to go beyond justifiable attention to preparedness.

Since last fall, however, it has been made plain not only that the United States honestly intended to keep out of the war but that nations abroad were interested in its direct participation. War fever is subsiding.

COMMON FAITH

President Roosevelt's Christmas letter to Pope Pius, announcing appointment of Myron C. Taylor as the President's representative to the Vatican, is a distinguished addition to the collection of state papers that will be housed some day at Hyde Park.

The President's motive and his description of what he hopes to encourage by working in cooperation with Pope Pius as well as with the Protestant churches and Jews qualify him as one of the ablest spokesmen for the common faith of the world's devout people.

There is a better world to be built when the forces of destruction have run their course again. "I believe that it is even now being built, silently but inevitably, in the hearts of masses whose voices are not heard, but whose common faith will write the final history of our time," President Roosevelt declares.

Americans take just pride in their chief executive's appropriate action and his skillful phrasing of a hope that sustains them.

The dogs to which the world is said to be going may not want it as a gift.

THE STARS SAY:

For Tuesday, December 26

A DAY of unusual activity and possibly excitement, holding over from holiday jollification, is pre-figured from the ruling planetary aspects. These pleasant engagements may have more than superficial interest, since surprising twists seem to be involved. Perhaps some sudden, although minor, change may be necessary by way of readjustment. Contacts with employers, superiors or others of influence may not be entirely happy or satisfactory. Extravagance or over-indulgence figures.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a particularly lively and eventful year. It is probable that some sort of minor change is in store, and the relations of superiors, employers or other influential persons may be strained. A tendency to extravagance, over-enthusiasm and indulgence should be curbed.

A child born on this day may be genial, kindly, indulgent and extravagantly inclined, not always having the approval of its superiors.

For Wednesday, December 27

EXCELLENT opportunity for putting over new projects is read from the prevailing lunar and mutual aspects. However, before definite progress is made it may be necessary to break up static conditions or remove obstinate and long-standing obstacles through the means of an indomitable will, energy and practical constructive effort. This aggressive initiative, if applied to new ways and means or entirely fresh technique, will prove lucrative, attracting solid support from large corporations, or political or diplomatic endorsement where this is essential. Flexibility of plans, rather than cut and dried tactics, may prove gainful.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of great progress and productiveness, especially in putting over decidedly new and modern propositions. But stagnant and crystallized conditions first must be tackled with force, determination and aggressiveness, thus attracting substantial support from large interests—business, financial, political or diplomatic. It may be profitable to yield rather than insist on old routines or passe methods and processes.

A child born on this day may be endowed with splendid energy and initiative, as well as much originality, inventive and constructive ability. It should make a decided success of its life by its strong character and applied faculties and forces.

Not even a Pocket Battleship is much good when it is pocketed!

Hopeful Greets Hopeful

Presidential hopefuls, Thomas E. Dewey (left) of New York, greets Federal Security Administrator Paul V. McNutt as they arrive at Washington on the same train from the West. McNutt is hopeful of securing the Democratic nomination; Dewey the Republican.

Medicine Makes Progress
In Year Drawing To Close

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

THIS IS a week of stock-taking and so we are allowed to review the progress that has been made in medicine during the past year and to look forward to what the future holds. I have spent some time in going through all the announcements of new methods that have been made during the year, and I should say that the outstanding piece of progress, from a practical standpoint, is the work on the surgical treatment of chronic deafness.

Dr. Clendenning will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

By an operation devised by Dr. Julius Lempert, it is possible to break up the bony fixation of the small bones of the middle ear, allowing resumption of normal transmission of sound waves.

Chronic deafness of the sclerosing type is due to a change in the bony structure of the internal ear. Spongy bone is replaced by hard bone. This fixes the ossicles of the ear so that they can no longer move and transmit the vibrations of the ear drum.

The mechanism of hearing depends upon the impingement of sound waves on the thin membrane, the ear drum. From the ear drum to the middle ear, the wave is transmitted by the movement of three tiny bones known as the ossicles. When the sound waves reach the inner ear they are picked up by the fine fibers of the organ of hearing and transmitted to the higher centers in terms of sound.

In chronic sclerosing deafness, the bone at the entrance to the organ of hearing turns from spongy bone to a marble-like hardness, fixing the ossicle so that it cannot move. The organ of hearing is intact and all the nerve connections are intact.

Dr. Lempert's operation contemplates going in and making a new connection so that sound waves can once more be transmitted directly to the organ of hearing.

I have been talking to an ear specialist who has spent some months with Dr. Lempert and has seen his results and learned his technique. The operation is long—it takes about four hours—and is necessarily an extremely difficult and delicate piece of surgery. The results, however, justify any

FIGHT LOOMINGRoosevelt Expected To
Have Battle With
Congress

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26. — Informed congressional sources predicted today that President Roosevelt would have his first 1940 tussle with congress over projected expansion of the national defense program.

Legislators in touch with the White House said Mr. Roosevelt would emphasize defense strongly in his "state of the nation" message, expected January 4, and would ask early action on proposals to bolster the army and navy.

The president has indicated that defense estimates would exceed this year's appropriations, totaling $1,800,000,000, by approximately $500,000,000. His annual message, however, may suggest curtailment of some other governmental expenditures to compensate in part for the defense increase.

In No Danger

Even so, some opposition senators argued that a considerable bloc of legislators believed the United States was in no immediate danger of attack, and that any new equipment purchased now might become outmoded before this country would be called upon to defend itself.

A house appropriations subcommittee tentatively has set January 5 for the start of hearings on the naval appropriation bill.

Only a handful of senators and 50-odd representatives remained in Washington for the Christmas holiday, but leaders still here outlined the probable legislative situation as follows:

With the quadrennial political conventions in the offing, Mr. Roosevelt and most members of congress are anxious to prevent the injection of new and controversial issues at the next session.

Congress should wind up its business and adjourn by early June.

The administration will make a vigorous fight for continuation of its reciprocal trade program, scheduled to expire next June. Extension of the program will be contested by many Republicans and a group of western Democrats who contend it is hurting farm and other interests in their states. The congressional battle over continuance tentatively is scheduled to begin in early April.

May Revamp Labor Act

Proposals to revamp the Wagner labor act probably will come to a showdown.

"LOVE'S INTERLUDE" by -MAY-CHRISTIE

CHAPTER XIV

It seemed an ominously long time to Moira till the doctor returned. He looked grave.

It would be idle to deny that the patient is on the danger list. Not only does great shock accompany severe burns, but there's the chance of acute pneumonia following. However, as far as one can judge, she has a good constitution. And now, my dear—his blue eyes that seemed to have the capacity of looking right down into the soul of human suffering were very kind—"I want you to go home and have a good night's rest. You have someone with you. I presume? Your family, perhaps?"

"No, I'm quite on my own." And her solitariness that had seemed so alluringly independent, now in this crisis seemed desolating.

The handsome doctor opened his lips as though he were about to speak, then paused. There was pathos in her white-faced beauty. She was poignantly appealing at that moment. He gauged her sensitiveness, her suffering in this tragic interlude to her work.

He put a kind hand on her shoulder for an instant, nodded, then made his exit from the waiting room by an inner door. Moira moved to the door she had come in by. It stood ajar. A white-clad figure just outside in the corridor, stepped quickly back. For a second, the eyes of Nurse Emmet, blazing oddly, swept her.

Then, her starched uniform crackling, the woman turned and walked away.

"She was eavesdropping," thought Moira. The eyes like a rattlesnake. The rustling, gliding movement. Something cold and clammy had come close to her. Jealousy? More trouble? Was there to be no end to it?

A sulphurous air hung over Deverney's beauty parlor. Catastrophe brooded. The operators talked in whispers. The door of the boss's sanctum was ominously closed.

On the other side of it stood three women. Lynx-eyed Cora, her fair face flushed with anger as she harangued Moira Carewe. Evelyn Groves was there—and Cora's husband, Joe Deverney, who was trying to get a word in that might stem the torrent of his wife's lamentations.

She was completely illogical. "Whatever possessed you to give her the Narmarcus shampoo before we'd given it a try-out on one of you girls?"

Then, all in a breath: "It's a perfectly safe product, I tell you. But you gave her too much friction. Why couldn't you read the instructions on the bottle? You'll pay for your carelessness, my girl!"

From Joe, soothingly: "No one's to blame except the manufacturers. The insurance company has its lawyers hot after them. Calm yourself, Cora."

She whirled on him furiously. "Oh, you make me sick, I declare! It's always the same old story when my back's turned! Something goes wrong, and then it's me that gets the brunt of it! It's my good money that's in the shop, Joe Deverney! It's me that's going to be sued to the limit!"

Moira thought, miserably: "He isn't going to let her know he told me to go ahead with the shampoo! He took the responsibility against my better judgment, but I get the blame for it!"

"There must have been a light burning," said Cora sharply. "I'll bet you left the gas for your curling iron on!"

"I didn't." Moira avoided looking at Evelyn. She didn't blame Evelyn for failing to stand by her, for Cora would have fired Evelyn on the spot for reckless smoking.

But a sense of disillusionment, of having been failed by one she had looked on as a friend, added to the wretchedness of the altercation. Moira felt sick.

"My, you look terrible! Peagreen, I declare! Joe, get out of that chair, and let her sit down." Somewhere in her ample bosom, Cora Deverney had a touch of human compassion, withered as it was by her lust for money-making. For a brief moment, it showed now.

The accident wasn't Moira's fault. Cora. She was against giving the Narmarcus treatment. It was the customer who insisted. I told Moira that what the customer says goes."

"Then I say you've no right to be in the hair-dressing business, and you're a ninny!" Her wrath was transferred to her husband. A nice mess he'd got them into! They were partners. But outside this room, no one should ever be permitted to know that her Joe had a share of the blame.

"Not a word of this talk is to get to anybody's ears! You two girls understand? The makers of the product are responsible. Let the customer sue them for damages. We're innocent. Let her fight it out with the insurance company. And if I hear of either of you two girls discussing this case with anyone, you're fired! I'll handle this thing myself. And both of you keep your mouths shut!"

Moira went home directly after the disturbing scene at the shop. The condition of her hands rendered manual work impossible for at least two weeks. That was maddening.

And of course you can't expect to be paid. This from Cora Deverney, lately. Behind her, Moira glimpsed the husband giving a fleeting wink for Moira's benefit, as though to assure her either that his wife's bark was worse than her bite, or maybe that he himself would see to it she got her salary during the lay-off.

But to be treated as a sort of criminal seemed to Moira horribly unfair. Some of Tarleton Griggs' personal cynicism came over her as she walked, under lowering skies and in penetrating chill, the block west from the Avenue to the "El."

New York City was jammed and overflowing with well-educated boys and girls, job-seeking. Her own profession—if you could grace it by the word—was, from the operator's point of view, so crowded that one was lucky if one could make even a living wage. Where was the future? Her future?

She had thought of joining forces with Tarry—lovable Tarry, now say, now moody—many's the time. But that Tarry was a wavering reed, financially speaking, had been borne in upon her. Now, it did not lighten her depression to wonder if the good-looking lad who had often professed love for her was emotionally unstable, as in business?

What about these secret meetings with Mrs. Rules?

Moira loathed anything that savored of the underhand.

Not that Mrs. Rules had been a rival. That was unthinkable. Tarry had only made himself agreeable and attentive because of the woman's account, with his firm.

But it was hateful to think he had stooped to the age-old tricks of sex-attraction. Instinctively, her thoughts drifted here to Dr. Rodney Stone.

He was the direct antithesis to Tarry. Loyally she tried to smother that thought.

Hadn't the doctor had the benefit of a prolonged professional training? This expensive preparation—for living and—battling—Tarry, through no fault of his own, had gone without.

And wasn't the doctor much too serious? He lacked Tarry's inborn gaiety of spirit, which, after all, was the rightful heritage of youth.

If she married Tarry—and at this moment of downheartedness the vision of Tarry rose before her, shinningly attractive—she would know loneliness no more. In working for Tarry, bolstering up his ego, egging him on to new achievements, she would remake Tarry, at the same time leaving his zest for living intact. Nay, her presence with him would heighten his capacity for enjoyment, just as it would stimulate his brains for business. Maternal tenderness swept over her at the thought.

She turned into Sixth avenue and walked south. It was raining now. Sudden-looking men and women crowded round employment notices hung on dirty doorways. What a world!

But she and Tarry would fight that world together. She'd scrub and clean and mend and cook for him. Why shouldn't they live in her own little flat?

If she lost her job in Deverney's beauty parlor, what matter? She'd turn into a housewife. They'd work each other instead of bowing down to Mamma. They were both young and healthy and vital. They'd win out.

She stepped into a drugstore and phoned Tarry at his office. Tarry knew about the accident at the beauty parlor, but now she pushed Mrs. Rules, and his problematic outcome to the back of her mind. She invited Tarry to dinner that night at her apartment. She told him gaily that she would have his favorite steak and onions with mushrooms. Maybe he'd cook them himself, as her hands were bandaged?

No, she didn't feel badly, she assured him. She felt fine.

It seemed ominously long before Tarry replied. "Okay. It's somewhat inconvenient. But I guess I can show up around seven."

She bought the steak—thick, juicy and expensive—a little cardboard box of mushrooms, and—recklessly—luscious winter strawberries, with half a pint of cream.

Then the drinks? They both needed heartening in this vile weather and their circumstances. She liked sherry. Tarry's pet tipple was Scotch.

Oh, it was madness to fling away her money, but the occasion demanded something special. The best liqueur kind. And some wood for the fire. And daffodils—like sunshine. She bought a big bunch of them. They would look lovely on the table in a periwinkle blue jar. Firelight—flowers—and Tarry! First and last—Tarry!

What more could a girl want?

It was a charming picture that the eyes of Tarleton Griggs rested on when he entered the little flat.

He had half expected a martyred hostess, wan and suffering. Annoyed about the accident, he didn't fancy himself in the role of sympathizer, though the whole thing was rotten as for Moira.

But Moira never had looked lovelier. Positively radiant, in fact. Lipstick and rouge she had applied, using professional skill. For, sighting herself in the mirror a bare three minutes before her door-bell rang, she'd been dismayed at her own pallor, and remedied it with cosmetics that, normally, she dispensed with. The suffering she had gone through seemed to have left her big dark eyes an added luminosity.

Coming in here from the penetrating chill and gloom outside, the leg fire crackled a cheery welcome—and even more welcome was the sight of that bottle of liqueur Scotch on the sideboard!

"So you're still alive and kicking, eh?" He grinned as he looked around for a spot to deposit his damp coat and hat.

"I'll hang them in the bathroom, Tarry." She was dashed that he hadn't kissed her. At a greeting so nonchalant after a disaster that might well have put her in the hospital along with the unfortunate Mrs. Rules. But she told herself it was a man's urge to hide his feelings. And better this way, or she might have burst into tears in idiotic self-pity—which men detest.

"No. Your hands. Don't use 'em unnecessarily, old girl. I'll do the 'useful' chores." He was back from the bathroom in a jiffy, and went straight to the sideboard where she had set out a bowl of ice cubes, two siphons of soda-water, the glasses and the Scotch.

"Now let's wait for the harrowing details until we've both had a cheery snifter. What say?"

"Not for me, Tarry. But you go right ahead."

"Nonsense! It's no fun drinking alone. Just because the old girl's in the hospital doesn't mean you have to spend the evening in prayer and repentance. Or—"he gave her a swift, sharp look—"you haven't by any chance lost your job, have you?"

"N-not yet." She gave a little wavery laugh that sounded as though it were dangerously akin to tears. That would be the last straw. His excellent new client hors-d'combat—probably no financial good to him for many weeks, if the woman didn't actually die in hospital—and his best girl ready for the doldrums.

"LOVE'S INTERLUDE" by -MAY-CHRISTIE

CHAPTER XIV

It seemed an ominously long time to Moira till the doctor returned. He looked grave.

"It would be idle to deny that the patient is on the danger list. Not only does great shock accompany severe burns, but there's the chance of acute pneumonia following. However, as far as one can judge, she has a good constitution. And now, my dear—" his blue eyes that seemed to have the capacity of looking right down into the soul of human suffering were very kind—"I want you to go home and have a good night's rest. You have someone with you, I presume? Your family, perhaps?"

"No, I'm quite on my own." And her solitariness that had seemed so awfully independent, now in this crisis seemed desolating.

The handsome doctor opened his lips as though he were about to speak, then paused. There was pathos in her white-faced beauty. She was poignantly appealing at that moment. He gauged her sensitiveness, her suffering in this tragic interlude to her work.

He put a kind hand on her shoulder for an instant, nodded, then made his exit from the waiting-room by an inner door. Moira moved to the door she had come in by. It stood ajar. A white-clad figure just outside, in the corridor, stepped quickly back. For a second, the eyes of Nurse Emmet, blazing oddly, swept her.

Then, her starched uniform crackling, the woman turned and walked away.

"She was eavesdropping," thought Moira. The eyes like a rattlesnake. The rustling, gliding movement. Something cold and clammy had come close to her. Jealousy? More trouble? Was there to be no end to it?

A sulphurous air hung over Deverney's beauty parlor. Catastrophe brooded. The operators talked in whispers. The door of the boss's sanctum was cautiously closed.

On the other side of it stood three women. Lynx-eyed Cora, her fat face flushed with anger as she harangued Moira Carewe. Evelyn Groves was there—and Cora's husband, Joe Deverney, who was trying to get a word in that might stem the torrent of his wife's lamentations.

Miss Duncan Is Bride Of Ross Rupert

The marriage of Miss Helen Duncan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose S. Duncan, 729 East Fourth st., and Ross Rupert, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Rupert of Maple st., was solemnized on the bride's birthday, Sunday, Dec. 24, at 2 p. m. in the Presbyterian church by Rev. R. D. Walter. Members of the immediate families were the only guests.

The bride wore a brown costume suit with brown accessories and a corsage of Tall mums and bouvardia. Miss Dorothy Duncan, her sister's maid of honor, wore a green dress with black accessories and a corsage of Gloria roses. George Miskimmins of Cleveland served Mr. Rupert as best man.

Following the ceremony 15 guests were received at the wedding dinner served at the Hotel Lape. The table was attractively appointed with a wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom as a centerpiece, and white candles in crystal holders. Guests included Miss Faye Lantz of Salem, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Rupert and two sons of Youngstown and Miss Vivian Wells of Cleveland.

Mr. and Mrs. Rupert will live in the R. B. Thompson home on the Damascus rd. for the present. Mr. Rupert is employed by the Mullins Co.

Miss Venable Bride of Ronald Hoopes

Miss Ruth Venable, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Venable of Patmos, became the bride of Ronald Hoopes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hoopes of the Winona rd., at a wedding at 7 p. m. Saturday.

The marriage was performed by Rev. Charles F. Rothel of Piedmont, former pastor of the Bunker Hill Methodist church, at his home. The bride wore a poudre blue dress and hat with wine colored accessories and a corsage of orchids.

The couple left immediately after the marriage for a short wedding trip to Wheeling, W. Va., and Pittsburgh.

Mrs. Hoopes was graduated from Salem High school in 1930 and attended Salem Business college. She has been employed for the last two years at the City Loan office in Alliance. She will be associated with the same firm in its new office here.

Mr. Hoopes, a graduate of Salem High school, class of 1931, is employed by the Electric Furnace Co.

The couple will make their home with his parents for the present.

Miss Frantz Bride of Edwin Beck

Mr. and Mrs. George Frantz of 1st ave., announce the marriage of their daughter, Isabelle, to Edwin Beck, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Beck of Morris ave., in a quiet ceremony Saturday at the Church of Our Saviour.

Rev. Ian Robertson, rector of the church, performed the ceremony.

Miss Katherine Frantz, sister of the bride, and Carroll Beck, brother of the groom, were the only attendants.

Mr. and Mrs. Beck left after the ceremony for a short trip, and will be at home to friends at their residence on Maple st.

Mr. and Mrs. Beck are graduates of Salem High school, classes of '32 and '34, respectively. He is employed by the Mullins Manufacturing Corp. Mrs. Beck is associated with the Salem Plumbing and Heating Co.

Party Announces Engagement

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lantz of Wilson st. announce the engagement of their daughter, Ruth, to William Kryk, son of Mr. Ignatius Kryk, of South Ellsworth ave. Announcement was made Saturday night at a party at the home of her grandmother, Mrs. William Lantz, Sr., on Wilson st. Favors were candy canes with the announcement cards attached to them with red bows.

Mr. Kryk formerly of Chicago, is employed by the National Sanitary company, and Miss Lantz a graduate of Salem High school in the class of '36 is employed as a maid. The wedding will take place in June.

Christmas Eve Dance Held by Club

A large number of couples attended a Christmas dance of the Y-Dance club at the Cassidy ballroom last night.

Music was provided by Bill Grassick and his orchestra, featuring Miss Ginger Black as vocalist. The committee which arranged for the dance included John Tatu, John Varinatis, Joe Belan, William Cassidy and George Green.

Alliance Couple Wed By Pastor Here

Harold J. White and Jane Newkirk of Alliance were married Sunday evening by Rev. C. D. Walter in the Presbyterian church study.

They were attended by Paul Yates and Betty Ailes, also of Alliance. Mr. White is employed by the Taylorcraft corporation. They will make their home in Alliance.

Guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Schmidt Christmas day included Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Schmidt and children, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Schmidt, Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Davidson, Mrs. Charles McLaughlin of Carrollton, Mrs. Henry Buncke and daughter Agnes of Pittsburgh, and Alfred Mead of Cleveland.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Moeller of Pittsburgh spent the Christmas holidays with Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Humphreys of S. Ellsworth ave. Mr. Humphreys, who has been seriously ill, is improving. Mrs. Moeller is a sister of Mrs. Humphreys.

Tropical linen has a slightly wiry texture, difficult to crush, and it's one of the coolest fabrics on the cruise market. Buy it by the yard for home-made turbans.

By PRUNELLA WOOD
IMAGINE a pinwheel of subtle shades and you'll have the color scheme for these twins in southern circles. Both dresses are made in a sheer, tropical va-depending on whether she has on the street-length version, top, or the ankle-length, bottom. Accessories are no problem with such a style, becoming to practically any figure.

Mr. and Mrs. Gaston Are Honored

Friends and relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Gaston honored the couple yesterday on the occasion of their 61st wedding anniversary, celebrated at their home on East Sixth st.

A family dinner was served, with pink and white pompons and baby's breath as the centerpiece for the table. The couple received flowers and other gifts.

Among children of the couple who were present for the celebration were David Gaston of Wadsworth, his daughter, Jane, and two sons, Dan and Robert and Mrs. Maple Riddle and her daughter Elizabeth.

Guests included George Thomas and daughter, Helen, of Youngstown, and Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Riddle and daughter, Mary Ruth, of Washingtonville.

Mr. and Mrs. Gaston have lived most of their lives in Salem. Mr. Gaston, 82, was born in Ireland and came to the United States when a boy. Mrs. Gaston, 80, is a native of Scotland and came here shortly before the Civil war.

MIZPAH CLASS IS ENTERTAINED

Mrs. Fred Park and Mrs. Arthur Loudon Hostesses to Winona Group

WINONA, Dec. 26.—Mrs. Fred Park and Mrs. Arthur Loudon were hostesses to 25 members of the Mizpah class at their monthly meeting Tuesday night in the church basement.

Supper was served at tables arranged with Christmas candles and pine and other holiday appointments.

The president, Fred Park, presided over the business meeting. Mrs. Raymond Brandt and Mrs. Lowell Whinery had charge of the games.

The informal program was featured by a gift exchange and singing of Christmas carols.

Program at Voice's
Voice's school Christmas program was presented Friday night following the business meeting of the P. T. A. The program was as follows:

Welcome, Gale Whitacre; song, "Santa Claus Is Coming to Town"; Peggy Hunter, Genevieve Mercer, George Stiger, Martha Jean Whinery, Dorothy Steiger and Marjorie King; recitation, Martha Rhodes; playlet, "Two Boys Christmas Gifts"; Gale Whitacre and Richard Fetters; recitation, George Steiger; play, "First Aid for Santa"; recitation, Genevieve Mercer; "Christmas Stockings"; Martha Jean Whinery, Marjorie King and Dorothy Steiger.

Recitation, May Wolford; play, "Christmas in Holland"; recitation, Marjorie King; Christmas carols, school; recitation, Dorothy Steiger; recitation, Peggy Hunter.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. King and Mr. and Mrs. Murray King were appointed on the program committee for the January P. T. A. meeting.

The Young Matrons club met Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Cecil Bennett. Five hundred was the afternoon's diversion, with Mrs. Francis Hall winning the prize. Mrs. Bennett's home was beautifully decorated in keeping with the holiday season and lunch was served at bridge tables with Christmas appointments. The group enjoyed a gift exchange.

Mrs. Clyde Bennett will entertain in two weeks.

The Methodist Sunday school presented an old fashioned Christmas program in the church Sunday evening. There were drills, a pantomime, exercises, recitations, vocal and instrumental music and a men's quartet. A Christmas tree and treat were part of the evening's entertainment.

W. C. T. U. Convenes
The December meeting of the Winona W. C. T. U. was held Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. George Megral, Mrs. Isaac Barber led the devotions reading a part of the fifth chapter of Matthew, followed by prayer.

After a short business meeting, a question-and-answer roll call was in charge of Mrs. Donald Mayhew. Miss Ethel Andre played two Hawaiian guitar selections.

A tribute to Mrs. Ola Hamilton, a pioneer member in the early history of the Union, written by Mrs. Amanda Cope, was read by Mrs. Mayhew.

Mrs. Wilson Steer gave a book review on "The Life of Frances E. Willard, followed by a reading, "Do You Hear the Angels Singing?" Mrs. Lowell Whinery, with musical accompaniment by Ethel Andre; "Meaning of Christmas", Rev. Doriene Speas.

A gift exchange followed the adjournment. Donations for Christmas baskets were received.

The next meeting, Jan. 10, will be with Mrs. Wilson Steer and Mrs. Elizabeth Kendig will have charge of the meeting.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. L. A. Weaver.

Lodge Leader Dies
At Home In Sebring

Preceding the regular business meeting in the Macabae hall tonight, members of the Plymouth council will meet at the home of Mrs. Otis Flick, E. State st., at 6:30 p. m. They will go to Sebring to view the body of Mrs. May Thornberry, deputy of Plymouth council, who died on Christmas eve.

Although a member of the Rose council of Sebring, Mrs. Thornberry was a deputy in the local council.

The regular business session will be held in the hall immediately following the return of the members from Sebring.

High School Campaign, In Second Year, Getting Good Results

DEARBORN, Mich.—Eldor Ford, president of the Ford Motor company, said today excellent cooperation had been obtained from school and automobile clubs in the safe driving campaign the company is directing toward more than a million boys and girls of high school age.

The campaign, which now is entering its second year, shows the faithful driver through educational advertisements that it is smart to drive safely. Specific information is given in narrative form on the subject and safe way to pass other cars, to make turns, to back up, and other essentials of motoring.

"We are addressing the campaign to young folks because drivers of high school age have twice as many accidents as motorists twice their age," Ford said. "And it is getting results. Parents, teachers, state highway departments and automobile clubs have asked for thousands of reprints, and in doing so have said they believed the campaign would have lasting benefits. The reprints are posted from time to time on bulletin boards in schools and clubs in all parts of the country."

The campaign has carefully avoided any kind of "preachment," or the use of "horror" pictures. Instead, the stories convey an idea of the prestige a driver acquires by being able to handle his car well, and in being intelligent enough to handle it safely, under all motoring conditions.

Typical of the letters received from parents is this one: "Thank you for attempting a job which I have been trying to handle for years without success. Your method in story form has done in one reading all that I have failed to accomplish in dozens of lectures."

Crocker's Popular Band Is Held Over At Metzger

Mel Crocker and his band, popular musical organization at the Hotel Metzger, has been held over for this week, the hotel management announced today. Many remember Mel and his boys, who played to capacity crowds all during the holiday season at the Metzger last year.

Crocker some years back headed a 12-piece band which acquired considerable fame in New York state. From an obscure group, the band became one of the best liked and busiest organizations in entertainment circles in the Empire state, winning much popularity through its performances at the Peacock room of the Hotel Hamilton.

However, as the band's renown was spreading, an unfortunate accident put Crocker out of commission for many months he was unable to wield a baton. As a result, his band was split up. Jackie Barnhart, the comedian, went with Austin Wylie, Rogers Washburn, vocalist and pianist, was with Charlie Barnett.

Crocker, after recovering from the effects of his accident, played with such bands as those of Paul Specht, Emil Velasco, Merle Jacobs, and others.

Two years ago Mel was able to get several of his original crew back, including the group now with him, and decided to start out again, with a small band, with the expectation of eventually building up a larger musical organization. This has been slow, however, because Crocker is exceedingly choicy and will not hire a man unless he meets high standards.

Crocker and his band will leave for southern engagements after the first of the year. It is possible he may add extra pieces to his band at that time.

CHRYSLER SEES GOOD JANUARY

One of Best Salesmonths in History Expected by Auto Makers

"The month of January, 1940, promises to be among the biggest in Chrysler history," says Charles L. Jacobson, vice president and general sales manager of the Chrysler sales division, Chrysler corporation. "Our schedule calls for the shipment of more cars than we delivered at retail in January, 1939, and that was one of the best months we ever have had."

"This big January schedule is going to relieve a lot of the pressure on our dealers, who had thousands of unfilled orders on their books when we resumed full production. It means that those customers who have so patiently awaited deliveries of their 1940 Chrysler will soon be rewarded for their patience. It means, too, that the flood of new orders that began to arrive with the resumption of our schedule will be handled in a reasonable time. In fact, approximately normal sales conditions are not far off."

At Full Capacity
"We are operating at full capacity, but obviously we will turn out cars only as fast as is consistent with supreme craftsmanship and the most rigid inspection standards in the industry. It would be unthinkable for Chrysler to 'rush things through,' no matter how great the demand from dealers and the public. But, working two shifts, we can turn out a very large number of splendid cars in the course of a working day, the more so as our men returned to work with enthusiasm, eager to produce the cars in which they take so much pride. "Our inspection department declares that the quality of cars now coming through is the highest that it ever has seen and I can assure

DEBONAIR HOUSECOAT
Pattern 4362
Very young ideas has this captivating little dress designed by Anne Adams. It's practical enough to work in, spirited enough to play in, smart enough to live in. And the same Pattern, 4362, will make you an arresting housecoat too. Don't you love the front buttoning—so decorative and convenient? High point of style is that high, wide and handsome waist girdle that gives you an infinitesimal waistline, emphasized by the softly bloused bodice. Make long or short sleeves and have a rounded or revers-collared, probably edged with lace. What a dashing blouse and skirt effect a checked top gives! Nice in all one fabric, too.

Pattern 4362 is available in misses' and women's sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28 and 30. Size 16, skirt and girdle, takes 2 1/2 yards 39 inch fabric and blouse, 1 1/4 yards contrast.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly SIZE, NAME, ADDRESS and STYLE NUMBER.

"NOW IS THE TIME to prepare for Spring," says Anne Adams about her NEW SPRING PATTERN BOOK which is now ready for you to order. It's alive with attractive styles including a youth corner for tots, teens and twenties, evening-belle frocks, Spring bridal finery, carnival cottons and gay prints. You will even find balanced styles for scale-lugging matrons and charm shop suggestions for forty-plusers. The book is fifteen cents but when ordered with a pattern, which is also fifteen cents, THE TWO TOGETHER ARE TWENTY-FIVE CENTS.

HARD LUCK BABY GETS NO RESPITE
21-Month Old Youngster Has Had Long Siege Of Sickness

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah.—"It's a tough life—but don't weaken." That slogan fits 21-month-old Ralph C. Burningham of Salt Lake City, No. 1 contender for the title of "tough luck baby." His saga of aches and ills is proof of a tough life.

Ralph's unusual run of luck—all bad—started when he was born. He weighed only three pounds at birth, spent the next 10 days in an incubator and the next four months being carried around on a pillow.

Well, that sounds pretty soft. But it wasn't, because Ralph fell off the pillow and broke his collarbone. The shoulder was wrapped in tape for the next six months.

Then things went from bad to worse. He suffered yellow jaundice, followed shortly afterward by the measles.

After careful nursing, his mother—Mrs. Ralph D. Burningham—believed that all would be rosy again. Yes, you're right. It wasn't. One day she heard Ralph scream. Investigation showed he had been bitten by a rat. A dozen injections followed.

"Himmm," thought Mrs. Burningham, "his has gone far enough."

So she had her offspring, then a year old, vaccinated for "almost everything they could think of, including smallpox, diphtheria, whooping cough, and all the rest."

It wasn't enough.

HOLIDAYS MAKE HEAVY DEMAND

Paris Cleaners Prepared For Every Job, Large Or Small

At no time during the winter season are clean, fresh, spic-and-span garments more important than they are now. With Christmas out of the way, the social season gets under way in earnest, with innumerable public and private events scheduled for the New Year's weekend, and succeeding weekends.

The wear and tear of holiday shopping is over. Now we may take stock of ourselves, and both figuratively and literally knock the spots off our clothing, freshen it up, and get ready to go places.

The holidays make an especially heavy demand upon us in the way of clothing. It is a season of good cheer, reunions, friendships renewed, parties and travel, and our clothing must be in condition to meet every demand.

You may be sure of clothing for every event if you let the Paris Cleaners take over your wardrobe worries. Paris reliability is a watchword among customers of long standing.

They will call for and deliver your garments and you may be certain of quality with every job, no matter how large or how small.

Specific information is given in narrative form on the correct and safe way to pass other cars, to make turns, to back up, and other essentials of motoring.

"We are addressing the campaign to young folks because drivers of high school age have twice as many accidents as motorists twice their age," Ford said. "And it is getting results. Parents, teachers, state highway departments and automobile clubs have asked for thousands of reprints, and in doing so have said they believed the campaign would have lasting benefits. The reprints are posted from time to time on bulletin boards in schools and clubs in all parts of the country."

The campaign has carefully avoided any kind of "preachment," or the use of "horror" pictures. Instead, the stories convey an idea of the prestige a driver acquires by being able to handle his car well, and in being intelligent enough to handle it safely, under all motoring conditions.

Typical of the letters received from parents is this one: "Thank you for attempting a job which I have been trying to handle for years without success. Your method in story form has done in one reading all that I have failed to accomplish in dozens of lectures."

At G. W. T. W. Film Premiere

In typical Hollywood style, Atlanta, Ga., premieres the movie, "Gone With the Wind." Included among the film players in Atlanta for the premiere were two feminine leads, Olivia De Havilland, left, and Vivien Leigh, right. The man is Producer David Selznick. Miss Leigh plays "Scarlett O'Hara" in the film.

Crocker's Popular Band Is Held Over At Metzger

Mel Crocker and his band, popular musical organization at the Hotel Metzger, has been held over for this week, the hotel management announced today. Many remember Mel and his boys, who played to capacity crowds all during the holiday season at the Metzger last year.

Crocker some years back headed a 12-piece band which acquired considerable fame in New York state. From an obscure group, the band became one of the best liked and busiest organizations in entertainment circles in the Empire state, winning much popularity through its performances at the Peacock room of the Hotel Hamilton.

However, as the band's renown was spreading, an unfortunate accident put Crocker out of commission and for many months he was unable to wield a baton. As a result, his band was split up. Jackie Barnhart, the comedian, went with Austin Wylie; Rogers Washburn, vocalist and pianist, was with Charlie Barnett.

Crocker, after recovering from the effects of his accident, played with such bands as those of Paul Specht, Emil Velasco, Merle Jacobs, and others.

Two years ago Mel was able to get several of his original crew back, including the group now with him, and decided to start out again, with a small band, with the expectation of eventually building up a larger musical organization. This has been slow, however, because Crocker is exceedingly choicy and will not hire a man unless he meets high standards.

Crocker and his band will leave for southern engagements after the first of the year. It is possible he may add extra pieces to his band at that time.

CHRYSLER SEES GOOD JANUARY

One of Best Salesmonths In History Expected by Auto Makers

"The month of January, 1940, promises to be among the biggest in Chrysler history," says Charles L. Jacobson, vice president and general sales manager of the Chrysler sales division, Chrysler corporation. "Our schedule calls for the shipment of more cars than we delivered at retail in January, 1939, and that was one of the best months we ever have had."

"This big January schedule is going to relieve a lot of the pressure on our dealers, who had thousands of unfilled orders on their books when we resumed full production. It means that those customers who have so patiently awaited deliveries of their 1940 Chryslers will soon be rewarded for their patience. It means, too, that the flood of new orders that began to arrive with the resumption of our schedule will be handled in a reasonable time. In fact, approximately normal sales conditions are not far off."

At Full Capacity
"We are operating at full capacity, but obviously we will turn out cars only as fast as is consistent with supreme craftsmanship and the most rigid inspection standards in the industry. It would be unthinkable for Chrysler to rush things through, no matter how great the demand from dealers and the public. But, working two shifts, we can turn out a very large number of splendid cars in the course of a working day, the more so as our men returned to work with enthusiasm, eager to produce the cars in which they take so much pride."

"Our inspection department declares that the quality of cars now coming through is the highest that it ever has seen and I can assure the public that this department is not given to rash statements. Its business is to find fault, not sing praises.

"Dealers all over the country are now receiving cars to fill the orders already on their books. In fairness to our customers, we have adopted the policy that cars must be delivered to owners in the order of chronological precedence. No dealer will accumulate stocks while any other remains unfilled."

HARD LUCK BABY GETS NO RESPITE

21-Month Old Youngster Has Had Long Siege Of Sickness

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah.—"It's a tough life—but don't weaken." That slogan fits 21-month-old Ralph G. Burningham of Salt Lake City, No. 1 contender for the title of "tough luck baby." His saga of aches and ills is proof of a tough life.

Ralph's unusual run of luck—all bad—started when he was born. He weighed only three pounds at birth, spent the next 10 days in an incubator and the next four months being carried around on a pillow.

Well, that sounds pretty soft. But it wasn't, because Ralph fell off the pillow and broke his collarbone. The shoulder was wrapped in tape for the next six months.

Then things went from bad to worse. He suffered yellow jaundice, followed shortly afterward by the measles.

After careful nursing, his mother—Mrs. Ralph D. Burningham—believed that all would be rosy again. Yes, you're right. It wasn't. One day she heard Ralph scream. Investigation showed he had been bitten by a rat. A dozen injections followed.

"Hmmm," thought Mrs. Burningham, "his has gone far enough." So she had her offspring, then a year old, vaccinated for "almost everything they could think of, including smallpox, diphtheria, whooping cough, and all the rest."

It wasn't enough.

Today's Pattern

DEBONAIR HOUSECOAT

Pattern 4362

Very young ideas has this captivating little dress designed by Anne Adams. It's practical enough to work in, spirited enough to play in, smart enough to live in. And the same Pattern, 4362, will make you an arresting housecoat too. Don't you love the front buttoning—so decorative and convenient? High-point of style is that high, wide and handsome waist girdle that gives you an infinitesimal waistline, emphasized by the softly bloused bodice. Make long or short sleeves and have a rounded or revers-collared, probably edged with lace. What a dashing blouse and skirt effect a checked top gives! Nice in all one fabric, too.

Pattern 4362 is available in misses' and women's sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 16, skirt and girdle, takes 2 1/2 yards 39 inch fabric and blouse, 1 1/4 yards contrast.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly SIZE, NAME, ADDRESS and STYLE NUMBER. "NOW IS THE TIME to prepare for Spring," says Anne Adams about her NEW SPRING PATTERN BOOK which is now ready for you to order. It's alive with attractive styles including a youth corner for tots, teens and twenties, evening-belle frocks, Spring bridal finery, carnival cottons and gay prints. You will even find balanced styles for scale-lipping matrons and charm shop suggestions for forty-plus.

The book is fifteen cents but when ordered with a pattern, which is also fifteen cents, THE TWO TOGETHER ARE TWENTY-FIVE CENTS.

HOLIDAYS MAKE HEAVY DEMAND

Paris Cleaners Prepared For Every Job, Large Or Small

At no time during the winter season are clean, fresh, spic-and-span garments more important than they are now. With Christmas out of the way, the social season gets under way in earnest, with innumerable public and private events scheduled for the New Year's weekend, and succeeding weekends.

The wear and tear of holiday shopping is over. Now we may take stock of ourselves, and both figuratively and literally knock the spots off our clothing, freshen it up and get ready to go places.

The holidays make an especially heavy demand upon us in the way of clothing. It is a season of good cheer, reunions, friendships renewed, parties and travel, and our clothing must be in condition to meet every demand.

You may be sure of clothing for every event if you let the Paris Cleaners take over your wardrobe worries. Paris reliability is a watchword among customers of long standing.

They will call for and deliver your garments and you may be certain of quality with every job, no matter how large or how small.

Bargains are plentiful. The ads will tell you where.

PROSPECT COPS THIRD TRIUMPH

Defeats Fourth Street to Remain In Lead In Grade Loop

With Schuster scoring 16 points to set the pace, Prospect cagers trounced Fourth Street, 31 to 20, at the Memorial building Saturday for their third straight victory in the Mickey McGuire basketball league for grade school teams.

Schuster collected eight field goals in leading the Prospect scoring. Fridon counted eight points for Fourth Street.
Columbia, defending champion of the league, registered its second victory in three games by stopping McKinley, 18 to 14. Wartrick Kozar and Ciotti shared scoring honors for Columbia, while Hobart led McKinley.

A scheduled game between St. Paul and Reilly was won by Reilly on a forfeit.

MOTORS DEFEAT PATRICIAN FIVE

Althouse Road Team Registers Victory In Home Debut

Making their first home appearance of the 1939-40 basketball season, the Althouse Motors road team upset the strong Youngstown Patrician club, 37 to 27, at the Memorial building Saturday night.

The Motors pulled away to a seven-point lead in the first quarter and remained safely out in front throughout the contest. At halftime, the Salem team led 24 to 9, while at the end of the third period the Motors were out in front 32 to 20.

Forward Sammy Drakulich led the Motors' scoring, counting three field goals and nine free throws for 15 points. Bob Jeffries tallied eight points for the Salem club.

Roberts Win
Roberts Men's Shop captured a close decision in a preliminary game to the Althouse-Youngstown tilt, edging the Warren Spier club, 18 to 16.

Except for the first quarter when Roberts fell four points behind, the two teams battled on practically even terms. Roberts trailed by only one point at halftime and led 14 to 13 at the end of the third quarter.

Kenny Shears swished the netting with three field goals and as many free throws to lead Roberts in scoring with nine points.

PROSPECT COPS THIRD TRIUMPH

Defeats Fourth Street to Remain In Lead In Grade Loop

With Schuster scoring 16 points to set the pace, Prospect cagers routed Fourth Street, 31 to 20, at the Memorial building Saturday for their third straight victory in the Mickey McGuire basketball league for grade school teams.

Schuster collected eight field goals in leading the Prospect victory. Fridon counted eight points for Fourth Street.

Columbia, defending champion of the league, registered its second victory in three games by stopping McKinley 18 to 14. Wartick Kozar and Clott shared scoring honors for Columbia, while Hobart led McKinley.

A scheduled game between St. Paul and Reilly was won by Reilly on a forfeit.

MOTORS DEFEAT PATRICIAN FIVE

Althouse Road Team Registers Victory In Home Debut

Making their first home appearance of the 1939-40 basketball season, the Althouse Motors road team upset the strong Youngstown Patrician club, 37 to 27, at the Memorial building Saturday night.

The Motors pulled away to a seven-point lead in the first quarter and remained safely out in front throughout the contest. At halftime, the Salem team led 24 to 9, while at the end of the third period the Motors were out in front 32 to 20.

Forward Sammy Drakulich led the Motors' scoring, counting three field goals and nine free throws for 15 points. Bob Jeffries tallied eight points for the Salem club.

Roberts Men's Shop captured a close decision in a preliminary game to the Althouse-Youngstown tilt, edging the Warren Spider club, 18 to 16.

Except for the first quarter when Roberts fell four points behind, the two teams battled on practically even terms. Roberts trailed by only one point at halftime and led 14 to 13 at the end of the third quarter. Kenny Shears swished the netting with three field goals and as many free throws to lead Roberts in scoring with nine points.

Breezy Briefs Of Sport From Brietz To You

By KENNETH GREGORY.

(Pinch-hitting for Eddie Brietz.)
ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 26.—Scoop: Bobby Jones is taking golf lessons. . . . Honest, Injun. . . . The grand-slammer wanted another expert's views on his swing, so he's having his strokes scrutinized once or twice a week. . . . Which means, no doubt, the one-time world champion intends to shoot for a higher position in the Augusta "Masters" tournament next April. . . . Don't count Jack Sutherland out as a possibility at Stanford. . . . Ditto, Dell Morgan, Auburn assistant, at Rice.

A Sad Mistake
Today's Guest Star, Zipp Newman, Birmingham (Ala.) News: Illinois' victory at football over Michigan was voted the upset of the year. . . . The boys must have forgotten the College of the Pacific's victory over California. . . . After all, Illinois is in the same league with Michigan.

Alabama kicked itself into the Rose Bowl two years ago. . . . Tennessee ran there. . . . Sandy Sanford's winning field goal boots over Tulane and Vanderbilt got Alabama the invitation. . . . Johnny Butler's 56 and 40 yard runs against Alabama and Auburn helped write Tennessee's ticket. . . . So help me, Auburn's players, who faced four of the "bowl" teams, nominated Villanova as the toughest club encountered.

Save The Ball
Thanks for a referee. In the Alabama-Vanderbilt game, Alabama scored seconds before the game ended with the tide in front 30-0. Alabama lined up for the extra point. . . . The referee walked over and said, "If you boys want that ball you had better not kick it into the stands. . . . You'll never get it back. . . . The game's over."

Alabama called a quick huddle and ran for the point. . . . But not far enough to lose the ball. . . . Germany Schulz, Michigan's all-time all-America center, is vacationing in Birmingham (Ala.).

Duke's basketball roster lists 13 athletes from Pennsylvania, one from North Carolina.

From the walls of Tennessee's dressing room: "Tennessee is known as a blocking team. . . . Follow the ball and make touchdowns instead of first downs. . . . The team that holds the scrimmage line usually wins. A great inter-fier is worth three star ball carriers."

The Salem Saxons suffered their second defeat in the T. S. J. A. basketball league Saturday night, losing to New Castle, Pa. Saxons, 34 to 28, at New Castle.

Falling behind in the first period, the Salem team was never able to cut down the lead built up by their western Pennsylvania rivals. New Castle led 18 to 11 at halftime.

G. Lang and J. Grief scored 16 points apiece to star for the Pennsylvanians. Rudy Schuster passed Salem scoring with nine points.

The Salem quintet will face Cleveland West at Cleveland Saturday in its next game.

ROCKVILLE, Md.—A physician was instructing school bus drivers in first aid.

"Never crowd a person who is out cold," he said. "Don't let spectators cut off the air he needs. Don't."

One of the drivers fainted and all the other drivers immediately crowded around him.

LEICHERSHER, Eng.—Monks at St. Bernard's Monastery, Charnwood Forest, Leicestershire, were proud of their beards. That was before the crisis. Now they are clean-shaven. They found that beards and gas masks didn't go well together.

DEATHS

MRS. HARRY B. ROUP
Mrs. Harry B. Roup, 51, of Toledo, formerly of Salem, died at 1:57 p. m. Saturday at the home of her son, Robert K. Roup, in Alliance, where she was visiting.

The daughter of William and Amelia Taylor Bowling, Mrs. Roup was born in Larimore, Pa. She had resided in Toledo since March, 1937, going there from Canton, Ohio, to live in Canton. She resided in Salem for 20 years.

She was a member of the St. Jacob's Reformed church, near Lisbon.

In addition to her husband, she is survived by two sons, Harry Edgar and Robert K. Roup, of Alliance; one daughter, Mrs. Virginia E. Fryan, of Alliance; one grandson, one sister, Mrs. Forest Elton, of Alliance, and four brothers, William S. Bowling of Canfield, Clifford B. Bowling of Columbiana, Norman K. Bowling of East Liverpool, and Stanley A. Bowling of Elizabeth, Pa.

Funeral service will be held at 2 p. m. Wednesday at the Cassidy and Turkle funeral home in Alliance, in charge of Rev. A. H. Elshoff, pastor of the Alliance Reformed church. Burial will be in Fairmount Memorial park in Alliance.

Friends may call at the funeral home from 7 to 9 tonight.

SCHOOL NEWS
AT DAMASCUS

The Home Economics club of Goshen Township High school will give two demonstrations at Smith grange hall Jan. 2, at 2 p. m., at the Farmers' Institute.

One demonstration will be "baby bathing" and the other will be "New ways of preparing common vegetables."

The ninth grade home economics class will exchange Christmas cards, which they made at a Christmas party Thursday afternoon. Original verses were written on the cards.

Baked Alaska, which they made, was served for lunch at the party.

The eighth grade Home Economics class will give a shower for Betty Lou, the "Home Ec Doll."

U. S. Anti-Tank Guns in Action

Men of Headquarters Company, of the Twelfth Infantry from Fort Howard, Md., are shown blazing away with a 37-mm. anti-tank gun during an artillery demonstration at Maryland's Fort Hoyle. The gunners proved their accuracy by blowing up a moving target.

Instead of exchanging gifts. The club presented the fifth and sixth grades a Christmas present of two sets of Artistic.

The club served 400 people on John Deere day in 15 minutes. The lunch consisted of Swiss cheese, weiner sandwiches, bologna sandwiches, cookies and coffee, furnished by J. E. Moore.

Spring Sign

OLATHE, Kas.—Snow and freezing weather notwithstanding, James G. Manning insists he's uncovered a sure sign of spring.

A hen hatched eight chicks in a barnyard nest.

Here and There
About Town

Daughters of Emmanuel
The Daughters of Emmanuel will hold their regular meeting at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday in the Emmanuel Lutheran church parlors, with Mrs. Cecil Hale and Mrs. John Bahmiller as hostesses. Mrs. John Bahmiller, program chairman, will lead the topic, "The Living Church, Centered in Christ."

It is important that all members attend this last meeting of the year, church officers pointed out.

Purse Snatcher Gets $28
Mrs. Ada Tice of 180 Highland ave. reported to police that a man grabbed her pocketbook as she walked along East State st. near the public library Saturday night and then fled across several lots in the direction of Pershing st. The pocketbook and its contents, valued at $28.

The purse-snatcher was hatless, wore a light jacket and was of heavy build, police were told.

In Play at Brigham Young
Joseph Martin of Salem was in the Christmas play, "Children of the Inn," at Brigham Young university at Provo, Utah.

This play is a production by the Mask club, a dramatic organization of the school, and all the characters were maskers.

Church Office Ransacked
Someone broke into the First Methodist church yesterday and ransacked the drawers in the Sunday school office, police reported this morning. Nothing was reported taken, however. Entrance was gained by breaking a basement window.

255 "Kids" At Party
The Elks lodge's annual Christmas party for children Sunday afternoon attracted 255 boys and girls. Each was given a gift of candy, fruit and nuts. A half-hour program of musical entertainment was presented by the Red Jackets.

Dinner For Girls
The Quota club will entertain a group of Junior High school girls at a dinner and Christmas party Thursday evening in the Presbyterian church. Dinner at 6 p. m. will be followed by an entertainment with gifts for the guests.

Smoke But No Fire
Firemen were called at 8:45 p. m. Saturday to the home of Carl Peliss 669 Franklin ave. which had become filled with smoke. The smoke filtered through the house when the smoke pipe from the furnace to the chimney came loose.

Plan Annual Dinner
The annual dinner for city employees will be held Thursday night, Jan. 4, in the former V. F. W. hall on Vine ave. Robert Howell is in charge of arrangements.

Young People to Meet
Young people of Salem Grange will hold their monthly meeting at 8 p. m. Wednesday in the hall on the Depot rd.

Concrete Remedy
PITTSBURGH—Earl Burke lifts his left foot high in the air when he hits a golf ball, and is never quite sure where it will go. Hap Slater decided something should be done to remedy the situation, so for a Christmas present he gave Burke a left shoe of the correct size—but made of concrete. It weighs 50 pounds.

Now Earl Burke has to do figure out how to carry it around.

Shriek It Out
BLOOMINGTON, Ind.—The city revived an old law requiring children under 16 to be home after 10:30 p. m., in attempts to curb a juvenile crime wave, but couldn't find a bell or whistle loud enough to be heard through this community of 18,000.

They finally hit on the plan of driving a fire truck into the street at curfew and turning on the siren.

Italy's Bike

The bicycle has staged a comeback in Italy due to the gasoline shortage, and the new vogue has produced this strange model of the old high wheel bike in reverse. The saddle is between the handlebars, which the rider manipulates behind her back.

Friends of German Freedom

More than five hundred persons attended first public gathering of Friends of German Freedom, in New York, and heard Thomas Mann and others discuss the significance of the present struggle inside Germany against Hitler regime. Seated are Mrs. Paul Hertz, wife of the expelled Social Democrat leader of Germany; Mann, standing, Socialist Norman Thomas, who spoke.

SUNDAY SCHOOL
UNIT CONVENES

Mrs. G. H. McDonald
Hostess to Damascus
Members

DAMASCUS, Dec. 16.—Members of the Friendship circle Sunday school class of the Methodist church will be entertained next month by Mrs. C. G. Long, Mrs. Philip Court and Mrs. Leonard Wood.

The group was entertained Wednesday evening by Mrs. G. H. McDonald, with Mrs. G. R. Morton and Mrs. Bert Courtney associate hostesses.

Mrs. V. R. Martin was a guest. Lunch was served by the hostesses. Officers elected are: President, Mrs. Albert Ward; vice president, Miss Faye Pyle; secretary, Mrs. Adelbert Greenawald; treasurer, Mrs. A. E. Bailey.

The group presented the teacher, E. E. Walker, a gift and Mr. Walker presented a gift to the class.

School Has Program
A program was presented in assembly at Goshen township High school Friday afternoon and a treat was given by the teachers.

Mrs. Cline to Be Hostess
Mrs. E. Cline will be hostess to the Farm Women's club Wednesday afternoon, Jan. 17, a Christmas exchange was a feature of the meeting Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Frank Batzli, Mrs. Herbert Platt and son of Salem were guests.

Club Entertained
Members of the Middleton club were entertained Thursday by Mrs. Charles Morlan. A comfort was knotted for the Friends Boarding school at Barnesville.

David Long was surprised Wednesday evening by the basketball team of Goshen Township High school, honoring his 17th birthday. The fete was arranged by his parents, Prof. and Mrs. C. G. Long. Prizes were won by Raymond Weingart, Delmar Court, Bob Hobson and Ramon Stanley.

The group presented David a traveling case. Lunch was served to 15.

Repair Tracks
CLEVELAND, Dec. 26.—A railroad crew today started repair of about 75 feet of the New York Central railroad's track, ripped up by the derailment of 11 cars of a 60-car freight train. Trainmaster E. J. Gibbons said cause of the derailment, at switching yards in East Cleveland, was undetermined. The train's five-man crew escaped injury.

Theater
Attractions

A Jane Withers comedy, "High School", will be the State theater attraction Wednesday, following the new-showing Sonja Henie comedy romance, "Everything Happens at Night."

The rapidly growing-up Janie, whose low-budget pictures rate high in box office attraction, has the role of a ranch-bred youngster whose know-it-all attitude antagonized the students of the high school where she is sent. When she is turned down for membership in an honor club she has set her heart on joining, she realizes her mistake and tries to prove she can play the game their way. The students' capture of a gang of car thieves who have been victimizing the students provides an exciting conclusion to the story.

The Grand's double feature for Wednesday is: "One Hour to Live", with Charles Bickford, Doris Nolan and John Littel in the leading roles; and a Higgins family comedy, "Money to Burn", featuring James Lucille and Russell Gleason, with Harry Davenport, Tommy Ryan and Lois Ranson.

The first picture is the story of how far underworld big-shots go in their efforts to buy protection, with Bickford as the detective who arrests Littel, a crime syndicate leader who has married the detective's sweetheart.

Three Chinamen Seriously Hurt In Crash East Of Alliance

Albert Alley, 59, of R. D. 2, Lisbon, a passenger in Pettigrew's car, was removed to the Central Clinic, suffering from a fractured pelvis and lacerations over the right eye.

Pittsburgh Hurt
Earl Deitz, 29, of Pittsburgh, was treated at City hospital for lacerations and abrasions after his car in which he was riding with J. W. Shenkel, 31, of Pittsburgh, was involved in a collision with a truck driven by Russ Russell, of R. D. 1, Lisbon, on Route 30, three miles south of Lisbon, at 1:15 a. m. Sunday.

Ten large cans of milk were spilled when a milk truck operated by Byron Sanor, 43, of R. D. 1, Salem, and a machine driven by Russell H. Peterson, 21, R. D. 1, Salem, collided on a township road, one and one-half miles west of Route 9, a few miles south of the city, Saturday morning.

Mrs. Peterson was treated by a doctor for bruises of the face and knees. Their 14-months old son, Russell, Jr., suffered abrasions. Sanor and a passenger on his truck, Virginia Ganea, were unhurt.

Durban, South Africa—What is believed to be a world record for spoon fishing has been established by a Durban angler, H. Robson, who landed a 700-pound slivery gray shark after a five-hour battle.

Lack of Five Cents
Causes $400 Damage

CINCINNATI, Dec. 26.—Five cents might have prevented some of the $400 damage to the roof of Mrs. Clement Daller's home. Fire broke out in her home yesterday, but the only telephone in the house was a pay station and she didn't have the change. She ran 500 feet to a neighbor's home to report the fire.

DEATHS

U. S. Anti-Tank Guns in Action

Men of Headquarters Company, of the Twelfth Infantry from Fort Howard, Md., are shown blazing away with a 37-mm. anti-tank gun during an artillery demonstration at Maryland's Fort Hoyle. The gunners proved their accuracy by blowing up a moving target.

SCHOOL NEWS
AT DAMASCUS

The Home Economics club of Goshen Township High school will give two demonstrations at Smith grange hall Jan. 2, at 2 p. m., at the Farmers' Institute.

One demonstration will be "baby bathing" and the other will be "New ways of preparing common vegetables."

The ninth grade home economics class will exchange Christmas cards, which they made at a Christmas party Thursday afternoon. Original verses were written on the cards.

Baked Alaska, which they made, was served for lunch at the party. The eighth grade Home Economics class will give a shower for Betty Lou, the "Home Ec Doll."

Daughters of Emmanuel

The Daughters of Emmanuel will hold their regular meeting at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday in the Emmanuel Lutheran church parlors, with Mrs. Cecil Hale and Mrs. John Bahner as hostesses. Mrs. John Bahner, program chairman, will lead the topic, "The Living Church, Centered in Christ."

It is important that all members attend this last meeting of the year, church officers pointed out.

Purse Snatcher Gets $23

Mrs. Ada Tice of 180 Highland ave. reported to police that a man grabbed her pocketbook as she walked along East State st. near the public library Saturday night and then fled across several lots in the direction of Pershing st. The pocketbook and its contents were valued at $23.

The purse-snatcher was hatless, wore a light jacket and was of heavy build, police were told.

In Play at Brigham Young

Joseph Martin of Salem was in the Christmas play, "Children of the Inn", at Brigham Young university at Provo, Utah.

This play is a production by the Mask club, a dramatic organization of the school, and all the characters were maskers.

Church Office Ransacked

Someone broke into the First Methodist church yesterday and ransacked desk drawers in the Sunday school office, police reported this morning. Nothing was reported taken, however. Entrance was gained by breaking a basement window.

255 "Kids" At Party

The Elks lodge's annual Christmas party for children Sunday afternoon attracted 255 boys and girls. Each was given a gift of candy, fruit and nuts. A half-hour program of musical entertainment was presented by the Red Jackets.

Dinner For Girls

The Quota club will entertain a group of Junior High school girls at a dinner and Christmas party Thursday evening in the Presbyterian church. Dinner at 6 p. m., will be followed by an entertainment with gifts for the guests.

Smoke But No Fire

Firemen were called at 8:45 p. m. Saturday to the home of Carl Peliss 669 Franklin ave. which had become filled with smoke. The smoke filtered through the house when the smoke pipe from the furnace to the chimney came loose.

Plan Annual Dinner

The annual dinner for city employees will be held Thursday night, Jan. 4, in the former V. F. W. hall on Vine ave. Robert Howell is in charge of arrangements.

Young People to Meet

Young people of Salem Grange will hold their monthly meeting at 8 p. m. Wednesday in the hall on the Depot rd.

Concrete Remedy

PITTSBURGH—Earl Burke lifts his left foot high in the air when he hits a golf ball, and is never quite sure where it will go.

Hap Slater decided something should be done to remedy the situation, so for a Christmas present he gave Burke a left shoe of the correct size—but made of concrete.

It weighs 50 pounds.

Now Earl Burke has to do figure out how to carry it around.

Shriek It Out

BLOOMINGTON, Ind.—The city revived an old law requiring children under 16 to be home after 10:30 p. m., in attempts to curb a juvenile crime wave, but couldn't find a bell or whistle loud enough to be heard through this community of 18,000.

They finally hit on the plan of driving a fire truck into the street at curfew and turning on the siren.

Italy's Bike

The bicycle has staged a comeback in Italy due to the gasoline shortage, and the new vogue has produced this strange model of the old high wheel bike in reverse. The saddle is between the handlebars, which the rider manipulates behind her back.

SENATOR NORRIS TO QUIT IN '43

Congress Veteran Will "Never Seek Public Office Again"

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—Senator George W. Norris (Ind-Neb) said today that he would never seek public office again when his present term expires in 1943.

The white-haired senator, after 37 years in congress, said in an interview:

"My work is done. My friends understand, and they won't ask me to run again."

Norris, now 78, has said in previous years that he would not run for reelection, but he has been re-elected anyway. Asked whether he would yield to such urging again, he replied with an emphatic "no."

He has had one of the most colorful careers in congress, and has been the target of vituperation as well as high honors and wide commendation.

Back in 1917, he was one of a little band of senators who filibustered to death President Wilson's "armed neutrality" bill. He voted against America's entry into the World war and he was denounced, even in Nebraska, as a traitor.

He has been one of the leading advocates of a third term for President Roosevelt—and he has received many letters from Democrats telling him that, as an independent, he has no business meddling in party affairs.

Norris has been known as the father of the Tennessee Valley Authority. He supported Mr. Roosevelt's controversial bill to reorganize the supreme court and fought for many other New Deal measures.

Just Starting

CINCINNATI, Dec. 26.—Christmas has just started for the Hoboes of America. They'll party the rest of this week on such delicacies as fried chicken, corn beef and cabbage, sauerkraut and gefuetelefish.

After yesterday's opening Christmas week feast, the "boes distributed neckties to 54 men sheltered in city jail and sent a cablegram to their fellow hobo in the British parliament, Arthur Hayday, praising King George's Sandringham speech.

Can't Be Bothered

DES MOINES, Ia.—State welfare officials sent notice of renewal of a $22-a-month old age pension to a woman recipient. Back came the notice with this written on its face: "As I have been ill, I can not be bothered with this."

The officials said an investigator probably would carry the good news to the lady by word-of-mouth, and try to make her listen, even if she wouldn't read.

Repair Tracks

CLEVELAND, Dec. 26.—A railroad crew today started repair of about 75 feet of the New York Central railroad's track, ripped up by the derailment of 11 cars of a 60-car freight train. Trainmaster E. J. Gibbons said cause of the derailment, at switching yards in East Cleveland, was undetermined. The train's five-man crew escaped injury.

Theater Attractions

A Jane Withers comedy, "High School", will be the State theater attraction Wednesday, following the now-showing Sonja Henie comedy romance, "Everything Happens at Night".

The rapidly growing-up Janie, whose low-budget pictures rate high in box office attraction, has the role of a ranch-bred youngster whose know-it-all attitude antagonized the students of the high school where she is sent. When she is turned down for membership in an honor club she has set her heart on joining, she realizes her mistake and tries to prove she can play the game their way. The students' capture of a gang of car thieves who have been victimizing the students provides an exciting conclusion to the story.

The Grand's double feature for Wednesday is: "One Hour to Live", with Charles Bickford, Doris Nolan and John Littel in the leading roles; and a Higgins family comedy, "Money to Burn", featuring James Lucille and Russell Gleason, with Harry Davenport, Tommy Ryan and Lois Ranson.

The first picture is the story of how far underworld big-shots go in their efforts to buy protection, with Bickford as the detective who arrests Littel, a crime syndicate leader who has married the detective's sweetheart.
